

FLORA FOR FESTIVAL

southern Vancouver Island has one of the most varied flora in Canada. Thetis Lake Park is a natural show site for visitors, she said. Miss Sartain will show her paintings at Art Gallery Tuesday. (See story, page 29.)

FROST? SNOW? HERE? NOT CRICKET, OLD BOY

Winter returned to Greater Victoria Tuesday night with ground frost in sheltered areas and snow at higher altitudes.

Snow was reported on the Malahat overnight, and a light dusting of white was on the Sooke hills early today.

The Arctic weather followed a minor deluge Tuesday afternoon and evening, when 0.65 inch rain fell in four or five hours.

Weathermen William Mackie predicted clear weather for the remainder of today, but said clouds will start gathering again tonight, making Thursday cloudy with sunny periods. Temperature will drop to 38 degrees tonight, and climb to a maximum of 57 degrees Thursday. Winds will be westerly at 15 miles.

Jordan Premier Defies Rioters

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Stone-throwing rioters and a general strike failed today to shake Premier Hussein Khalidi out of office. Mobs of youths, apparently organized by pro-Egyptian leftists, swarmed through downtown streets for several hours demanding that the government resign and that Jordan federate with Syria and Egypt.

Then Amman quieted. The demonstrators dispersed peacefully after suffering a few minor injuries. Large numbers of troops held key positions throughout the capital but did not participate in putting down the riots.

On the orders of Khalidi, police armed with clubs and equipped with straw shields trapped large sections of the rioters and prevented them from joining forces. The strategy worked.

After the rioting stopped, Khalidi went to the royal palace. The 70-year-old premier, named eight days ago by young King

Hussein to head a cabinet mostly of independents, was reported to have told an all-party committee demanding his resignation that he would not quit. He said the party leaders supported him when he formed the cabinet, and that he had done nothing since then to warrant their withdrawing their support. Meetings of cabinet ministers continued, however, in an effort to solve the second political crisis in two weeks. The first crisis arose when King Hussein dismissed the Communist-infiltrated government of Suleiman Nabulsi.

RCAF Pilot Deviated From Flight Plan

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Flying Officer J. S. Sargent, 26, of Westwood, Ont., pleaded guilty today to one of four charges filed against him today at his general court martial here.

Sargent faces the charges after he crash-landed an RCAF Mitchell bomber in a residential area of suburban St. James Feb. 17, damaging four houses. No one was hurt.

Among them was F/O D. R. Gibson, who was co-pilot of the plane.

Sargent, showing little emotion as he faced the five-man court, pleaded guilty to a charge of deviating from his flight authorization plan on the flight from Vancouver to Winnipeg. Sargent took the plane to Patricia Bay, B.C., instead of flying direct to Winnipeg as he was ordered. He said he picked up Gibson and another crew member at Patricia Bay. Sargent pleaded not guilty to three other charges of failing to make a re-fueling stop en route; failing to "take appropriate emergency landing action" on approach to Winnipeg's Stevenson Field airport and "making a false entry in a document signed by him that was required for official purposes."

UN to Meet Thursday On Egypt's Suez Plan

SHE'LL USE HER SHWEINBURKEL

Saanich Sasquatch Sought By Port Angeles Huntress

The hunt going on for the legendary Sasquatch on the B.C. mainland will have its counterpart on Vancouver Island next week.

Arnold Webb, secretary-manager of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said today Mrs. E. B. Tinkham of Port Angeles has written offering to bring to the city a "Shweinburkel," a unique shotgun, for hunting the hairy giant.

"We have accepted the offer," he said. "Representatives of the chamber and members of the Explorer Club will be on hand to meet Mrs. Tinkham on Sunday's afternoon boat from Port Angeles."

It was explained that a Shweinburkel is a shotgun with extraordinary powers, capable of shooting around corners. It is equipped with a "waffle" valve, as well as an altimeter.

The gun was originally used to shoot "goons" in the Gramplains of Scotland.

(Note: The Scottish goons are not to be confused with the underground type of Chicago.)

In her letter, Mrs. Tinkham, who is a frequent visitor to Victoria, noted there was a far bigger chance of shooting a Sasquatch around Victoria than on the B.C. mainland.

"The hairy giants," she points out, originated in Saanich. The ones on the mainland are the offsprings of the original clan. "I do feel that Vancouver Island is more of an ideal place for hunting Sasquatch," she wrote. "There is less fog and the terrain is ideal for a safari."

The Shweinburkel, she added, was the only ideal weapon to hunt the giant.

Questioned as to the existence of Sasquatch on Vancouver Island, anthropologists said they had never looked into the matter, but would make an immediate check with the Salish band to see if the hairy giants existed on the Island.

New Conditions Fixed for Canal

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

UNITED NATIONS—The United States asked today that the United Nations Security Council meet Thursday afternoon, "or as soon thereafter as may be convenient," to take up the Suez Canal question again.

U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge filed the request with the council president, Sir Pierson Dixon of Britain, in a letter made public by the U.S. delegation.

He asked that the council meet "for the purpose of resuming discussion" on the canal question.

Meanwhile Egypt declared she will run the Suez Canal but agreed to take disputes over operations and tolls to arbitration.

The Egyptian government published at Cairo its final canal terms in a memorandum which affirmed Egypt will operate the canal and collect all tolls and which Egypt promised to register in the United Nations.

In London, informed sources said Britain will fully back the reference by the U.S. of the canal question to the UN Security Council.

Main Points of Egypt's Plan

Main points of Egypt's plan are:

1. An autonomous Egyptian canal authority will operate and manage the canal.
2. The tolls are payable in advance.
3. Toll increases shall be limited to one per cent yearly. Any bigger increase shall be the result of negotiation and arbitration if there is no agreement.
4. The Suez Canal Authority will take 25 per cent of all gross receipts into a Suez Canal Capital and Development Fund.
5. The government of Egypt will receive five per cent of the gross receipts of royalties.
6. Egypt will respect the 1888 convention and "afford and maintain free and uninterrupted navigation for all nations."

within the limits of sand in accordance with the provisions of the Constantinople Convention of 1888.

(That would permit the barring of Israel ships which Egypt says it prohibits under the terms of the convention.)

7. Egypt promises to develop the canal for modern navigation according to the plans of the old company, with improvements.

In addition to promising to co-operate with the users, Egypt said it "will study further appropriate arrangements that could be made for fact-finding consultation and arbitration" on complaints relating to the canal code. That left the door open for further safeguards desired by western users.

Falls Short of U.S. Wishes

U.S. officials indicated Egypt's plan falls short of American recommendations on several key points. These mainly involve the six principles recommended for Suez operations by the security council Oct. 13.

The principles call for non-discriminatory "free and open transit of the canal," respect for Egypt's sovereignty, agreement on tolls, development of the canal, arbitration in case of dispute and non-political operation of the canal.

Egypt is reported to feel it has incorporated these recommendations in its plan. But the United States would like to see this spelled out more clearly.

Egypt's agreement to file the plans with the UN goes part of the way in meeting American suggestions that the principles be given an international status.

The canal memorandum was published shortly after the S.S. President Jackson, first American ship to enter the Suez Canal since it was reopened, steamed into the disputed waterway with an Egyptian pilot at the helm.

The ship's agent said dues for the passage were paid in dollars to the Egyptian Canal Authority. The freighter is carrying general cargo from Pakistan to San Francisco. The first British ship passed through the canal last week.

Meanwhile, U.S. Ambassador Raymond Hare met again with Egypt's foreign minister Mahmoud Fawzi for more talks on the subject.

Driver Kills Self

SHINNSTON, W. Va. (AP)—Darnell Rutter, 29, took his own life less than 30 minutes after his automobile struck a 12-year-old boy here Tuesday. Police said Rutter did not wait for a physician's report on the condition of James Zecco, the youth struck by his automobile—who suffered only minor injuries. They added that Rutter rushed from the doctor's office where the boy was taken, drove to his own residence and shot himself.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

This new day, O God, proves that darkness cannot hold us in its power forever. Sunrise has never failed us yet. So the darkness of our sorrow can be overcome by the light of Thy faith. The midnight of our sins can be overcome by the light of Thy forgiveness. The blackness of our fears can be overcome by the light of Thy confidence. Thy Son has never failed us yet. Amen.

BENNETT, PM's SON ON SAME AIRLINER

Is Ignorance Bliss—for 11 Hours Or Is Silence Politically Golden?

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Sun says Premier Bennett and Jean-Paul St.

Laurent, lawyer-politician son of the Prime Minister, cold-shouldered each other for 11 hours Tuesday on a flight from Montreal to Vancouver.

The premier was returning from a Social Credit convention in Toronto and political talks in Quebec. Mr. St. Laurent, Liberal MP for Temiscouata, was coming to B.C. for a campaign visit.

The Sun says: "Both knew the other was on the flight. But both apparently pretended they didn't as they sat without once exchanging greetings while the plane dived for 11 hours across 3,000 miles of Canada."

Premier Bennett, informed by reporters of Mr. St. Laurent's presence, made no move to introduce himself. Neither did Mr. St. Laurent, although he said later he usually makes a point of introducing himself on such occasions.

"He did not explain why he made the exception Tuesday."

Britain Cool to Bulganin's Latest Disarmament Offer

LONDON (AP)—A long, amicably phrased letter from Russia's Premier Bulganin to Prime Minister Macmillan on disarmament, the Middle East and European peace has aroused no perceptible enthusiasm in Britain.

The foreign office was said today to consider the letter friendly in tone but not necessarily significant. Bulganin has communicated his views in long personal letters to the United States, British and French chiefs of government at intervals since the Geneva "Summit" conference in 1955.

British press reaction is generally cool to the Soviet premier's latest.

Ambassador Jacob Malik delivered the 8,000-word communication to Macmillan last week's text today.

To relieve the present "undesirable aggravation of international tension," Bulganin set forth a number of proposals. None varied greatly from Soviet policy expressed in recent months.

His main recommendations included: 1. "Immediate banning of atomic and hydrogen weapon tests." No mention was made of Russia's five nuclear tests reported this month, but the letter recommended that the question of the tests "be separated from the general problem of disarmament and settled independently, not making this settlement contingent on agreement on other aspects of the disarmament problem."

2. New discussions of the proposal made in 1955 by then Prime Minister Eden for the creation of demilitarized "sanitary zones" in Europe. Bulganin also called for companion talks on such "corresponding" Russian proposals as that for a

1,000-mile aerial survey zone centred on the Iron Curtain. Bulganin envisioned these as steps toward an all-European system of collective security to replace the NATO and Warsaw pacts.

3. The great powers should join in "denouncing the use of force" to settle disputed issues in the Middle East.

4. British-Soviet talks to expand trade and "cultural and scientific-technical" exchanges.

LONDON (Reuters)—The five-power United Nations subcommittee on disarmament postponed its first post-Easter meeting from today until Thursday afternoon at Russia's request.

Queen's Visit Still in Doubt

LONDON (AP)—A columnist for the London Daily Express says President Eisenhower may have had second thoughts about inviting Queen Elizabeth to visit Washington this fall.

"If she does not go to the United States this autumn," writes William Hickey, "it will be widely believed that she has been snubbed."

British newspapers have been assuming that such a trip by the Queen and Prince Philip is definitely in the works although there has been no official confirmation from Buckingham Palace or the White House. Such a trip presumably would include a visit to Canada as well.

"Something seems to have gone wrong," Hickey declares. "Officials both in London and Washington are evasive, non-committal and slightly embarrassed."

At last month's Bermuda conference between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan questions about the visit were answered only by statements that any announcement would have to follow consultations with the Queen in London.

Judge Dies

KAMLOOPS—County Court Judge James Ross Archibald died Monday following a heart attack suffered Sunday. He was 74.

Judge Archibald took his university training in Halifax. He came to the west coast in 1914 and in 1916 started law practice in Kamloops. Before being called to the bench in the early 1940s, he was a partner in a law firm here.

He is survived by his widow and four daughters. Funeral service will be held this afternoon in Kamloops United Church.

'VOTE FOR CANADA'—LIBERAL THEME

How about a centennial slogan: Every Man His Own Sasquatch.

ON THE HUSTINGS

New CCF Policy Could Spark Party Clash

Provincial CCFers open a three-day annual meeting in Vancouver Friday, with the hint of controversy over the party's new manifesto adopted in Winnipeg last August.

Criticism of the Winnipeg declaration, a toned-down revision of the depression-adopted Regina Manifesto, is contained in resolutions coming before the expected 200 delegates.

In view of the forthcoming election, however, a full-blown debate is not expected on the convention floor.

The more radical members of the CCF believe the new manifesto is too soft.

It denounces monopolies and big business but adds that the party recognizes that in many fields there will be need for private enterprise.

This contrasts sharply with the Regina Manifesto, which for 23 years took the stand that "no CCF government will rest content until it has eradicated capitalism."

One resolution before the B.C. meeting also criticizes the fact that the Winnipeg Declaration was not circulated to all CCF clubs for discussion before being adopted.

Main theme of the meeting will undoubtedly be the June 10 election campaign. The CCF's six B.C. federal members will take part.

Possibility of a "little provincial election" on the eve of the federal election loomed today. Speculation followed the resignation of Thomas Irwin as speaker of the legislature to contest the federal riding of Burnaby-Richmond for Social Credit.

It was noted that Mr. Irwin submitted his resignation one month in advance of the federal nomination deadline, allowing time for Premier Bennett to call provincial by-elections in three unrepresented ridings.

A good showing in these by-elections would boost the party's position in the federal contest.

Only 35 days' notice is required to order a provincial by-election.

The other vacancies were caused by the deaths of Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd (Cariboo) and CCF member Ernest Winch (Burnaby).

Provincial officials have not yet been officially notified of the death of Mr. Chetwynd and Mr. Irwin's resignation from the legislature.

A by-election must be held within six months of official notification.

Another theory is that Premier Bennett will wait until after the federal election before calling the "little election" to ensure getting strong candidates.

If Mr. Irwin should lose in his first bid in federal politics, he may wish to run again provincially, and could be in line for a cabinet post.

Mr. Irwin was first elected from Delta in 1952 and was appointed speaker at the start of the 1953 session of the legislature.

Premier Due Back Here Today

Premier W. A. C. Bennett was expected back in Victoria today after his barnstorming tour of Eastern Canada.

At his last press conference in Montreal, the premier charged that the federal Liberal government has been giving out "terrible and scandalous patronage" to its friends.

At the same time, Mr. Bennett said Social Credit's campaign funds in B.C. are accepted with "no strings attached."

He had no knowledge of where his party's campaign funds came from, the premier said.

Asked to give a specific example of federal patronage, Mr. Bennett replied: "Horses on the payroll."

It was disclosed at the press conference that Social Credit will distribute across the country 1,000,000 copies of the party platform printed in a slick-paper booklet.

Debate continued, meanwhile on the size of the audience and overall success of the Social Credit rally at Toronto's Massey Hall.

Premier Bennett accused the press of "deliberately trying to play down" the meeting.

He "definitely" was not disappointed, the premier said.

Boy Genius Quits TV Quiz With $192,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Television's all-time high quiz show winner, 10-year-old Robert Strom, quit Tuesday night while he was $192,000 ahead.

Robert, who has answered tough questions in different scientific fields for many weeks on CBS' The $64,000 Question, broke the record for quiz show winnings last week.

Tuesday night when he appeared again on the show, his father announced that they had decided the boy should stop.

It wasn't much of a strain on Robert, his father said, but a terrific strain on his mother and father.

Robert, who will get his winnings in three annual installments—to ease his income tax burden—was asked by master of ceremonies Hal March how he felt about quitting the show. He grinned and replied: "Well—what can you do with parents?"

B.C. Teachers Rule Sex Education Subject for Mature Instructors

VANCOUVER (CP)—Delegates to the British Columbia Teachers' Convention debated sex education Tuesday and decided only senior teachers should attempt it.

H. B. Smith, assistant superintendent of Vancouver schools, said, "properly mature experienced teachers should not be afraid of discussing subjects like sex, narcotics, or anything else" in appropriate classes.

Mr. Smith was discussing a ment-course taught in B.C. schools.

Teachers said that in many schools, the course is left to the new teacher.

"To often it is given to someone who can't teach anything else," said C. L. Taylor, inspector of schools for Courtenay district.

Said Mrs. M. C. Pennington, teacher and girls' councillor from Cranbrook-High School, "many teachers are afraid to open a discussion with their group. They shudder at the thought of some of the questions they may be asked."

Mr. Smith said the course should be taught only by teachers with five years experience or more.

Said Kay Elliott, teacher and counsellor at Gladstone High School in Vancouver: "The health and personal development course, if taught by a good teacher, is a wonderful course. Otherwise, it is terrible."

In Tuesday's sessions B.C.'s teachers lined up solidly against the trend to larger schools on the grounds these are "factories" with an assembly line type of teacher-student relationship.

At the same time they admitted that the present huge schools with their classes of 40 and more students were a necessity of the current economy. It also was stated some high school students today have so much pocket money their teachers are asked to help them make out income tax returns.

A survey conducted at a greater Vancouver school showed that last year's total income for 1,000 students was $550,000.

One student filed a return for $3,300 this year.

The students spent $464,000 in one year on everything from hair dressing to automobile maintenance. Some teachers felt that the students are "too rich for their own good." Others thought the money they make helps develop independence and a sense of responsibility.

Fire Levels Block

VERDUN, Que. (CP)—A five-hour $50,000 blaze levelled a city block in this Montreal suburb Tuesday—burning through three brick buildings, two large garages and a number of sheds before being extinguished. Charles Clarence Hamilton was convicted of entering the home of a white family in the early morning hours last October. Testimony was that when police arrested him he was in the house and had removed his pants and shoes.

Deputy Solicitor Cecil Deacon challenged the jurors to "send out the word from this courthouse this very day that anyone, anyone at all who enters a house in the night-time with intent to ravish, will face death."

The jury deliberated less than an hour.

RIISING COSTS SERIOUS PROBLEM

Papers Near Limit of Economic Endurance, U.S. Expert Asserts

NEW YORK (CP)—News-papers in the United States and Canada are giving "magnificent public service," but rising production costs are becoming a threat to that service, says the president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

William Dwight, ANPA president and publisher of the Holyoke (Mass.) Transcript-Telegram, said in an address prepared for today's session of the association "it is apparent to all that we cannot preserve the strong financial independence that a free press must have unless we find new and more economical methods of publishing."

"This last newspaper price increase cost North American newspapers many millions of dollars. It doesn't require a CPA (certified public chartered accountant) to conclude that some newspapers are being pushed to the limit of their economic endurance."

"There can come the time when the burden of this cost will become so excessive that newspapers will be compelled to reduce their use of newsprint."

"That would be unfortunate. It would have a deterrent effect on our economy, harmful to everyone. It would in turn have an adverse impact on newsprint manufacturers."

Dwight said some labor organizations "have placed hobbies on the full application of new and improved mechanical ways of producing newspapers."

"They have blocked the maximum use of the instruments that alone can make the production of newspapers more efficient."

Security or Smear?

MR. CLYDE BLACKBURN, chief of the Canadian Press Bureau in Ottawa, is a journalist trusted by every party in the House of Commons. No one who knows him will doubt his word when he says that the personal notes left by the late Herbert Norman before his suicide bear no resemblance to the versions published by The New York Daily News.

The texts published in New York suggested (or were interpreted as suggesting) that Mr. Norman had some undisclosed reason for taking his own life. Mr. Blackburn, having examined the originals, says they contain no implications of this sort and indicate no motive for Mr. Norman's suicide.

It may be asked why Mr. Pearson allowed Mr. Blackburn to see these notes but would not permit him to publish them. This question is important because it touches Mr. Pearson's conduct throughout the Norman case. The minister of external affairs has been criticized for refusing to reveal all the information on which he and the Government decided that Mr. Norman was a loyal public servant.

In the case of Mr. Norman's last notes the answer to this question is obvious. If these documents threw some new light on the writer's motives, if they involved in any way the policy of the Government or the security of the nation, then it would be Mr. Pearson's duty to publish them.

They bear no such construction and therefore the Government does not choose to publish the anguished personal communications of a man about to kill himself. To publish them would accomplish no useful purpose and would only add to the anguish of Mr. Norman's family.

The Government does not ask the Canadian people to take its word alone on that score. It has asked Mr. Blackburn, a gentleman of unquestioned probity and no partisan affiliations, to examine the notes and confirm or deny the Government's opinion of them. His statement should remove all doubts.

The larger question is why Mr. Pearson did not publish all the files on the history of Mr. Norman once a subcommittee of the United States Senate questioned the integrity of a Canadian diplomat.

It is only Mr. Pearson's action in this respect that has been attacked so far by anyone in Canada. No Member of Parliament has yet questioned Mr. Norman's loyalty. None has said that he was unfit to represent Canada abroad or that the Government acted wrongly in sending him to Cairo.

The sole criticism of Mr. Pearson in Canada (the views of a few American senators do not concern us) is that he has not been completely candid with Parliament. And Opposition candidates in the election, desperate for an issue, no doubt will make the most of that criticism in attempting to damage Mr. Pearson and, through him, the Government.

If Mr. Pearson were thinking only of the election his impulse undoubtedly would be to publish everything in the Norman case. But as foreign minister he has other things to think about.

First, he has to consider the nation's security. After investigating Mr. Norman's integrity for many months, the Government must have accumulated a large amount of information on his activities as a high-placed official in the foreign service and some of this information, it is to be assumed, would be highly welcome to our enemies.

Secondly, Mr. Pearson had to consider the whole Canadian system of security which, unlike the system in Washington, is based on secrecy and is not subject to public inquiry.

The Canadian Government takes full responsibility for clearing all officials, or not clearing them, of suspicion. In the course of its investigations through the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and other agencies the Government of necessity must consider not only information available in a court of law but rumors, innuendoes and vague reports of all kinds. After sifting all this material, the Government makes up its mind, as it did in the case of Mr. Norman.

The alternative to this system is to allow some agency like a committee of Parliament to study this information (and much misinformation) in public, to smear officials by publishing false rumors and to follow the methods of the Senate subcommittee.

Most Canadians, we believe, will agree that the Canadian system is sound and the alternative intolerable. At any rate, no party in Parliament has challenged our system. No responsible public man has suggested that we should follow our neighbors' example and make security the football of partisan politics, the channel of smear and the weapon of witch hunting.

In the Norman case, therefore, Mr. Pearson has been defending not only the Government's judgment on one of its servants but the whole Canadian security system. Few Canadians will wish to change it at the behest of a few American politicians in Washington.

But if the Opposition politicians are prepared to say that Mr. Pearson is unfit to conduct the department of external affairs they are entitled to do so and make that question an election issue. They have not raised any such issue up to this writing. If they now proceed to challenge the integrity of Mr. Pearson and drag our whole security system into a political campaign, he need not fear the results at the polls.

Minnesota's Car Curfew

MINNESOTA IS EXPERIMENTING with a new scheme to reduce traffic accidents and crimes attributed to juveniles. It has imposed a driving curfew on children under 17. From midnight until 5 in the morning they may not operate cars.

There are admitted limitations in this new state law. The legislation bumps head-on into the arguments surrounding the age factor. One youth of 17, it is obvious, may be much more mature than another of 18. And it is by no means certain that bad driving or crime occurring between midnight and 5 a.m. cannot be advanced an hour or two if young people are bent on either.

At the same time the curfew has definite merits. It should help to curb delinquency. And it should give those parents with marginal control over their children some assistance in seeing that the youngsters are not out in cars after 12 o'clock.

Everyone's Fight

WHEN CANADA WAS AT WAR the people underwrote the cost of victory without complaint. They bought bonds, gave contributions, paid heavy taxes. Those who weren't in the front line of the struggle did what they could to provide the guns, the equipment and supplies that meant success. They financed the trained experts, behind the guns or in the research laboratories, to do a vital job for them.

Today a somewhat similar battle is being waged. It isn't an aggressive nation that is the enemy this time, but a serious scourge nevertheless. Cancer, one of the most deadly threats to man, is the foe; the medical men and research experts are the shock troops. The public, as before, constitutes the home front. From the people of Canada must come the funds to carry on the fight.

More information, more early diagnosis, more treatment facilities, more investigation of cause and cure—these are the objectives and they demand money. The annual appeal for funds to finance these purposes is now being made. The enemy is everyone's enemy, the cause is everyone's cause. Only by wide public support can the fight be won.

Record for Tedium

A CERTAIN "HILLBILLY HAL" Kennedy, disc jockey in Florida, has conducted an experiment which seems to have been impressive to listeners.

Because he did not like Elvis Presley and because his station manager said the public wanted Presley, the disc jockey locked himself in a control room and played Presley records for three-and-one-half hours. In that time the station received 3,000 telephone calls and telegrams, two-thirds of them agreeing with the disc jockey.

The time element makes "Hillbilly Hal" Kennedy's feat something of a record for endurance. Three-and-a-half minutes of such fare should provide adequate tedium for the ordinary listener.

We hope now, that when Mr. Kennedy next hears a request for the performer in question he will ask: "Who was Elvis Presley?" and make the operative word "was."

AS SHE IS SPOKE

By B. A. TOBIN

What I Mean Is . . .

JUST before the last presidential election in the U.S. somebody put out some advice for the voters. Much of it was pretty sharp. For instance the good citizen was warned to "look out for the candidate whose American Legion cap fits poorly — he just bought it." He was urged to "avoid the candidate who smiles too much; what's so funny these days?" And another warning was against "the candidate whose voice falters at the end of each page of his speech — he doesn't know any more than you what's coming next."

Tobin

Speeches can be very revealing, even when the speaker is mouthing somebody else's ideas. For so often it's the manner of delivery, rather than the actual words, that indicate the orator's real feelings and beliefs.

For instance, one man can say a simple "thanks" and convey much more gratitude than another's "a thousand thanks," or "thanks, a million."

The spirit of the giving counts more than the actual gift, even when it's the gift of tongues.

It's surprising, really, how little the words of our language mean nowadays. We've become so used to saying and hearing certain combinations of them that we give them no further thought. Now that the political campaign is approaching, there will be plenty of opportunity to gather examples of this.

Few orators will get through the evening without a reference to a "vast majority." But the vast majority — to misuse the term — of these references will be in error.

How Many?

A meeting of, say, 25 citizens is held. A motion is passed, 20 votes to five. Someone tells you later that the vast majority at the meeting was in favor of the motion. But there's nothing very vast about 20 people. If you say the vast majority of the people of China eat rice, you're really dealing with vastness. But to apply the phrase to small totals, as we do every day, is to ignore the meaning.

And some speaker is sure to tell us that "the political situation is literally a time bomb," when of course what he means is that it is figuratively a time bomb. "Literally" literally means literally—an exact description in the full meaning of the word. There no doubt will be a literal flood—oops, figurative flood—of such expressions.

"Exotic" is another favorite word of many speakers. The phrase "exotic blooms" is used so often to mean merely beautiful or attractive. If it's exotic it's a foreign import. Balinese dances are exotic here but not in Bali.

As an example of words becoming linked together through usage, you may have noticed how people who never use the word "fluent" for other purposes will always describe a person who speaks a foreign language as speaking it fluently. "He speaks fluent German," you will be told. You never hear an English-speaking person described as speaking fluent English, although it's enough of a rarity to cause comment.

These aren't mistakes so much as hackneyed uses. A word is used for one job so often it loses all real meaning. But some speakers delight in mixing up two somewhat similar words. Even newspapers have been known to do this!

When Mr. B. K. Sandwell was editor of Saturday Night he made a collection of the misuses of "flout" and "flaunt." He would have enjoyed the headline in a Vancouver paper the other day in which somebody "flaunted" a law, instead of flouting it. To flaunt a flag is natural enough, but if you flout it some patriot may take you to task.

Who Is He?

Another good old platform expression is "the average man." No speaker ever explains just what average he means—the arithmetic average, the geometric, the median or the mean—and in fact the man he is talking about may be far from average. But it's a good round phrase that doesn't mean very much—and hence is ideal for political speeches.

"Effect" and "affect" are favorites of the word mixers. If the campaigner tells you that his policies will have a good effect, and that his tax increase won't effect you—you'd better make sure his knowledge of politics is better than his grammar.

If he tries to convince you to vote for him, instead of persuading you—and thus convinces you that he is a little weak in semantics—he may lose your vote as well as your attention.

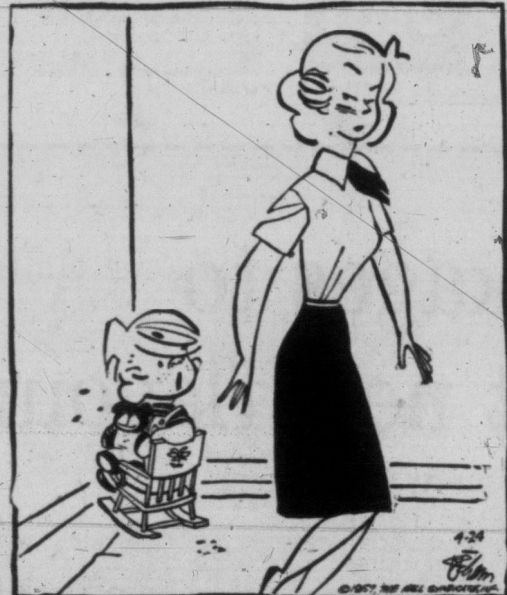

And if he asks for a memento, instead of a memento, the most appropriate one might be a dictionary.

MARKED for READING CONQUEST BY IDEAS

The history of colonization down the ages shows clearly enough that attempts to force people into a pre-determined mould of society have no enduring success. There is no short-cut to world civilization. If a nation-state wishes to win the acceptance of others for its principles and institutions, it cannot do so by conquest or coercion, but only by attracting a voluntary loyalty to its ideas.

Relocate Government House

The loss of furnishings, decorations and personal effects through the Government House fire is, of course, to be regretted. But possibly this fire may turn out to have been a good thing for the community. The building was an expensive one to heat and maintain, and as events have shown it was a fire hazard.

If the Government goes ahead with the plans to extend the Parliament Building grounds to Beacon Hill Park, it would seem to me that a site on Douglas Street facing the park would be an ideal site for the proposed new Government House.

The proposal was made to the Centennial Committee that Government House grounds be made into Botanical Gardens and that the Richardson Street slope would make a wonderful site for rock gardens, pools and waterfalls. The back drop of the Olympics would make this an outstanding attraction for all tourists and nature lovers. This project is much more feasible now that Government House is no more.

It would appear that the Centennial Committee could look to the Capital Improvement District Commission to give financial assistance from its $250,000 grant if this project was approved.

Who Sheddeth Blood . . .

Seldom it is that a hanging does not produce its litany of grievances from some source protesting capital punishment. Thus your correspondent of the 18th inst., conjuring up "a spirit of hatred," "revenge" or "other negative thoughts" in the mind of the culprit. But has she considered the feelings of the family and friends of the murdered one? And what are they? She excuses the murderer on the score of an advanced state of drunkenness.

Sir Winston Churchill, himself by no means a light drinker, but one able to hold his liquor, has said that drunkenness is despicable and a disgrace to society. Some hold that drunkenness is no excuse for crime committed. Your correspondent says that God has given us light, understanding, wisdom and tolerance, but it is common knowledge that when King Booze rules all these gifts fly out of the window and anything may happen. And when violence ensues involving the 6th Commandment the law steps in. She quotes this Commandment, but wholly ignores (if she knows) the God-decreed mandatory penalty—not for revenge, but a measure to satisfy justice.

Turning to Science

Church is a place where you have to listen to a lot of things you disagree with, told you by a man you can't talk back to.

Maybe that blunt statement sums up the case for modern young people losing interest in "Church life."

A local Anglican cleric recently complained of the dearth of young men espousing the Christian ministry as an occupation, and, to entice more into that field, suggested that religion should be taught in the public schools.

The era has now arrived when youth, brushing aside the fogs of myth and superstition, is taking up again where the ancient Greek philosophers left off and with the valuable aid of modern science is seeking to discover the real nature of man, his place in the universe and, most important of all, his ultimate destiny.

Once conceded that man is kith and kin of all other evolved life, it becomes obvious that a new approach to the study of man is necessary. We must learn scientifically to weigh and evaluate the psychological emotions to which he is subject and to guide them into channels that will end all wars and conflicts, and lead us to "Peace on earth, goodwill to men" in reality. The present period is the first in the world's history in which men have turned to science for support rather than to the supernatural.

Preachers had better wake up to the fact that modern youth wants to face reality—with minds freed of myths, legends and illusions.

Ramp

I see by the press that the Federal Government is to spend $221,855 building a new ramp to the basement of the new Victoria Post Office.

What an enormous further outlay. Surely in planning it should have been obvious that the ramp was needed at the time of building in 1952.

With the build-up of the number of motor vehicles since 1946, and Langley Street being so narrow, the need should have been seen then, rather than having to tear out and rebuild after only 4 1/2 years of use. The taxpayer surely pays.

The Old Order Changeth

BBC London Letter

A FAMOUS ancestor can be an embarrassing, if at times an amusing encumbrance, particularly to a young man, according to writer and "London Calling Asia" producer Hallam Tennyson, who is a great-grandson of Alfred, Lord Tennyson, the Victorian Poet Laureate.

Speaking in the BBC's Home Service about the influence the poet had had on his life, he recalled the kind of hostess who had carefully made up a bed for him in the drawing room, because "she knew that Alfred had been over eighty when he died and by some odd process of association she expected his great-grandson to be much too senile to climb the staircase up to the first floor."

"There was another occasion," Tennyson said, "when I was introduced to a girl at a cocktail party. She took one look at me, gave a spine-chilling laugh and screamed: 'Men may come and men may go, but I go on forever!' Then she turned abruptly away in search of more attractive prey."

Of course the name simply asks for misunderstandings when telephone lines get crossed. When this happened on a long-distance call and Hallam Tennyson, trying to find out whether he was speaking to the right number, began "This is Tennyson here," a voice snapped back out of the darkness, "Well, this is Shakespeare; and you'd better get off my line."

But the moment he treasured most, Tennyson said, occurred in New York harbor when his baggage was being inspected by a customs official who was an enthusiast for literature. Regardless of the growing queue of impatient travellers he learned all he could about the famous Alfred, and finally leaped over the counter and said in a strong Brooklyn accent: "So you're his great-grandson. Was he married?"

Having now reached the age of 35, Hallam Tennyson said that he had learned to take a genuine interest in his great-grandfather for his own sake, and to enjoy much of his poetry.

All the same, when recently he had lectured at length to a girls' school on "Alfred Tennyson—the Personality of a Poet," he had felt grateful to the girl who, at the end of it, was still under the firm impression that Alfred Tennyson was the man who had invented lawn tennis.

FROM ROME

By WALTER LIPPMANN

No Greater Buoyancy

RETURNING to Rome, where I have not been for over three years, I have been struck by how much less dramatic and momentous is the atmosphere of public life. Always before this there has been great anxiety in which it was felt that Italy was one of the main theatres of the cold war. The times have changed. Though there is in fact a parliamentary crisis which may have important consequences there is nothing like the tension of the postwar years.

The over-all reason for this change is, I suppose, that Italy, like the rest of Europe, has outlived the postwar period, and with it the memories, the fears, and the preoccupations of the generation which participated in the war. But there are also more specific reasons why the moral atmosphere has changed so much.

One is, most obviously, the impressive success of the Italian reconstruction and revival. Italy has been greatly assisted by American foreign aid. But what the Italians are doing themselves is the reason why the foreign aid, which after all has been only marginal, has been so successfully used.

Booming Economy

I do not believe there is any country in which there is a greater buoyancy and such confidence in dealing with affairs.

The booming economic revival undoubtedly goes far to explain the lowered tension of Italian political life. Other developments have contributed to it.

The death, and then the exposure of Stalin's abnormality, followed by what happened in Poland and in Hungary, have had a profound effect on the Communist party. They have not destroyed it as a revolutionary party of the left. But they have gone far to destroy it as an instrument of Soviet foreign policy.

This is manifested in the rift, which is not however a divorce, between the Communists under Togliatti and the fellow-travelling Socialists under Nenni.

The rift is not so wide but that the left Socialists and the Communists are still co-operating in local Italian affairs. But it is wide enough so that in the field of high policy, including foreign affairs, Nenni and Togliatti no longer form a solid bloc.

I have been told by those who ought to know that the Nenni Socialists are not likely to divorce the Togliatti Communists, and then to remarry the right-wing Socialists led by Saragat who are now part of the government coalition. One man, who has been in the midst of it all, told me that Nenni would never break wholly with the Communists because he is too old for the battle and is afraid to face the vengeance of the Communists.

There is a parliamentary crisis which will have to be resolved after the deputies return in May from their Easter holiday.

Largest Party

The present government is a coalition, of which the predominant and central part is made up of the Christian Democrats. Although the Christian Democrats are the largest party, they do not command a majority. Only in coalition with two much smaller parties, the right-wing Social Democrats and the Liberals, can they form an effective government.

The present crisis is, I am told, due at bottom to the fact that there are to be elections next year. The party leaders are manoeuvring for position. This raises the question of whether the existing coalition is to stand together or is to fall apart.

If the existing coalition falls apart, the chances are that no government can be formed which has a majority in the parliament. In that event, presumably, the Christian Democrats, being the largest of the minorities, would form a government, and would then carry on precariously, leaning now to the right and now to the left.

The worst of this might be, it is said, to draw the issue sharply between the Christian Democrats and the Communists. The result might be to squeeze out the smaller individual parties of the right and of the left which, whatever else one may think of them, do so much to keep the issues conveniently blurred and blurred, and thus within moderate limits. The Four Happy Men

NEW YORK—It is always pleasant to meet a man who is happy in his job and would not want to be doing anything else—when you meet four men in that state of mind, it is news.

We talked to four such men here at United Nations Headquarters—all of them fathers, three of them grandfathers, the men who direct the work of the United Nations Children's Fund in the four areas of the globe where UNICEF does its work.

The men are Stewart Sutton, a purposeful man with a sense of humor who, before joining UNICEF two years ago, was Director of Child Welfare in Toronto; Mr. Sam Keeney, of the United States; Mr. Charles Eggar, of Switzerland; and Mr. Robert Davee, of France.

Mr. Sutton administers UNICEF's Eastern Mediterranean area, Mr. Keeney's territory is Asia, Mr. Eggar's is Europe and Africa, and Mr. Davee supervises UNICEF's work in the Americas. To a man, they like what they are doing, and to a man, they lack that air of walking on eggs that frequently typifies United Nations men who live in fear of offending some member nation by a slip of the tongue.

SUPPORT EVERYWHERE

Mr. Keeney summed up the reason he and his colleagues are so uninhibited. "Everybody's against the things we are fighting—infant mortality, under-nourishment, disease. And everybody's for the thing we are for, and that's kids. So we get support everywhere we go."

In fact, Mr. Keeney explained, so receptive are the member nations to the work of UNICEF, that when the fund spends an amount of money in a given country, that country, no matter how under-developed it may be, almost invariably matches the UNICEF amount from its own treasury, and frequently puts up as much as four times as much. This is a showing that can be matched in no other field of international spending.

During the next six months, the four area directors of UNICEF will have over eight million dollars to spend—an amount voted this week by the Executive Board of the Fund, meeting at United Nations Headquarters. The money will finance 49 child aid programs in 40 countries and territories.

In addition, UNICEF will be sending warm clothing for approximately 100,000 children between the ages of four and ten in Budapest and other needy industrial areas of Hungary next winter.

What will UNICEF do with the money that has been voted to it by the 30-member Executive Board? Mr. Keeney, who points out that Asia holds half the world's children and has written a book with that title to prove it, concentrates UNICEF's attacks on the diseases of yaws and tuberculosis, and on the business of seeing that babies are born with maximum safety for mother and child. Ninety per cent of childbirths in Asia, he estimates, are unattended by skilled hands, and it is part of UNICEF's job to provide training and encouragement in this field. Out of that comes the related job of cutting the infant mortality rate—of seeing that children get the food and clothing and care they need to live and grow.

MEDICAL PROBLEM

In Africa, Mr. Eggar concentrates the resources of UNICEF not only on the problem of maternal and child welfare, but in the attack on the deadly mosquito that spreads malaria, and which so far has resisted just about every weapon the twentieth century has tried to bring against it. Mr. Davee in Latin America is having better luck, for the malaria-carrying mosquito of that area is not as hardy as its African cousin, and the mortality rate from malaria has been slashed.

Typical of the outlook of these dedicated men is that of Mr. Sutton, who lives with his wife and two of his children in Beirut. A third child is married and lives in Toronto.

Mr. Sutton says the two children who are in Beirut, a boy 17 and a girl 14, love it. "They're coming home with their mother for the summer," he said, "but they have made me promise that they will go back to Beirut. They love the place and they love the Middle East. I love the work I'm doing, so I guess that makes it unanimous."

LONDON LETTER

Mr. K. No Drunken Fool

LONDON—To what degree can the outpourings of Khrushchev be attributed to his intake of alcohol? When he was in this country it wasn't long before it got around just how hard the Soviet leader hits the bottle and it has become usual to greet each new tirade he unleashes with the comment that he was undoubtedly drunk at the time.

However, a Daily Express correspondent back from spending several months in Moscow says that "it is dangerously short-sighted for people in the West to regard this man as raw material for Alcoholics Anonymous, to dismiss his outpourings as the babblings of a man who cannot hold his liquor." There is much more to the man than that, says correspondent Shelley Rohde. Certainly he drinks a lot, but he can take it.

The writer points out that one must not turn a blind eye to his cold, calculating competence. To do so is to ignore a dedicated enemy of capitalism, a man fanatical in his determination to bring about world-wide Communism.

Correspondent Rohde made a detailed study in Moscow of the drinking habits of Khrushchev (to the extent of counting his drinks at functions) and also watched this aspect of the man during his tour of India. That is a strict no-alcohol country. But at vodka functions at home and at strictly fruit-cup-only Moslem celebrations he was equally overflowing with vitriolic verbosity. According to Rohde, some of his fiercest anti-Western speeches were made at teetotal public appearances in India.

I remember my encounters with Russian troops in Yugoslavia during the war. They drank hard all right, men and officers. At taverns with the ordinary soldiers and at official functions with senior officers, I found that when they asked you to join them in a drink you were expected to do what they did—toss off the whole glass, whether it was mild sherry or violent vodka. They are a non-sipping race. And they get drunk fast, not unnaturally. But drunk as they might be, never ever could I get any one of them to answer when I slipped a leading question about conditions inside Russia.

Though their morals and their ethics may go, overboard when they're drunk, the Russians would seem to have a built-in reflex that prevents them from letting down the Soviet Union when in their cups.

Rock Garden Show Catalog of Beauty

The earliest of the local flower shows has been arranged by the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Society for Friday and Saturday of this week in the Crystal Garden.

If you have lived in Victoria for years and have recently acquired a property with much rock, here is your opportunity to see a catalog of living plants.

Each plant is clearly labelled with its name for you to record for future use. Experienced growers, both amateur and professional, are usually on hand to give additional information regarding culture and habit.

For the newcomer, this show may open up possibilities of a garden such as may never be achieved in any other part of Canada. Tiny rhododendrons, fragrant daphnes, colorful saxifrage and showy fritillarias are all in bloom now, and may be examined at close range at the show.

In addition to rock and alpine plants, there will be many subjects suitable for the so-called wild garden. This informal type of gardening is gaining in popularity here year by year. An amazing number of plants are available for such locations, including several varieties of trillium, fritillaria, erythronium (local trout lily, or Easter lily) and the most delightful ferns.

Plants for sun, plants for shade, some in full flower, others with the promise of bloom to come, plants from Tibet, Chile, India, Corsica and our own far northland, these will all be shown for your enjoyment this week.

Chance Meeting Norman Ruin?

Association With Japanese Scholar Damaging in FBI Wartime Probe

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—A chance meeting with a Japanese friend during the Second World War may have contributed to the web of circumstantial evidence wound about E. Herbert Norman, Canada's ambassador to Egypt, and ultimately drove him to a suicide death.

The Japanese asked Mr. Norman to do him a favor. Mr. Norman did that favor and came to the attention of the FBI, which presumably sought more information on him from Ottawa.

Out of such developments a case was built against the Canadian ambassador, despite the fact that he had been cleared by his own government. Now the Norman affair has become an international one which will have repercussions in the federal election as well as across the border.

Mr. Norman, like many another Canadian in the thirties, had wondered if some other form of government might not be able to better solve the economic problems of the depression. He, like many others in the democracies, was discouraged by the fact that the free nations were apparently unable to cope with the Fascists who had sprung into prominence in Italy and later in Germany.

At university he met and talked with Communists. In the words of Hon. L. B. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs, he "associated" with Communists, as did many other Canadian university students in that era when Communism had not been unmasked and exposed to the world as a menace to the freedom of mankind as great as the Fascists or Nazis.

In his university days it appears that Mr. Norman was intrigued by the teachings of Marx. He was perhaps a Marxist.

Then came the doubts in the mind of Mr. Norman. There was the starvation of hundreds of thousands in Russia as it embarked upon its great Communist experiment. There were the brutal purges, the staged trials and the state's prisoners pleading guilty after brain washings.

'Regretted Earlier Beliefs'

Mr. Pearson put it this way in his press statement last week:

"On the basis of the (security) investigations I concluded that Mr. Norman had had as a student ideological beliefs which were close to some brand of Communism. I also concluded that he regretted these earlier associations and beliefs and had voluntarily abandoned them by the time he entered the Canadian foreign service."

Mr. Norman joined the Canadian department of external affairs in 1939. He had apparently been disillusioned in his earlier beliefs. He saw Stalin and Hitler become partners early in the Second World War, which must have added conviction to his conclusion that he had been wrong in his earlier beliefs.

But Mr. Norman, who was born in Japan, had made a friend of a Japanese scholar during his university days. The Japanese scholar, Tsuru Shigeo, was interned in the United States after Pearl Harbor. Tsuru had a large collection of books and papers.

Mr. Norman was a junior officer with the department of external affairs at the outbreak of war. He was posted to Tokyo. Pearl Harbor caught him in Japan and he too was interned, as a Canadian diplomat, by the Japanese.

According to information obtained here Mr. Norman was one of a group of Canadian and American diplomats exchanged for Japanese internees in the United States and Canada. Mr. Norman and Tsuru are reported here to have met by chance at Cape Town at the gangplank of a Red Cross exchange ship in 1942.

They exchanged greetings. Tsuru spoke with regret of having had to leave behind his valuable collection of books and papers. He was afraid they would be lost or destroyed. As a favor he asked the young Canadian diplomat if he could check at Washington to see if the library was being kept intact. Mr. Norman agreed.

Later back in North America Mr. Norman remembered his undertaking. He went to Tsuru's apartment in Washington and there he was met by the FBI. The United States security officers had been keeping the apartment under observation, according to information here.

WAS DAMAGING

Mr. Norman identified himself as a Canadian foreign service officer seeking, as a favor to Tsuru, to ensure that his friend's books and papers were still intact.

The FBI took his name and established a file on Mr. Norman. That he was a friend of a Japanese national was damaging. Later the report from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police on Mr. Norman was obtained for the file. The report read: "In February, 1940, a secret agent in Toronto reported that one, Prof. Herbert Norman, who at that time was attending Harvard University and was connected with McMaster University in Hamilton, was a member of the Communist Party in Canada. This source stated that it was Mr. Norman's intention to return to Canada in the hope of gaining admission to the faculty of the University of

50 Victoria Fishermen Affected By Mainland Halibutmen's Fight

Victoria's halibut boats will be unaffected by picket lines which Tuesday tied up mainland-based halibut vessels employing three or more men. A fisheries department spokesman said no larger vessels were licensed from Victoria. There are, however, about 50 Victoria fishermen on the larger boats based on the mainland. More than 100 larger vessels are involved in deadlocked negotiations between the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union and the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association of B.C. The men want the fishing boat's share of the catch to bear the cost of echo sounders, instead of deducting the cost from the gross catch. They also object to preparing the vessels for sea without pay.

Car Crash Victim
Unseen 3 Hours

(From CP Dispatches)

CHASE—A young Indian, seriously injured apparently when the car he was driving crashed into a tree, lay unnoticed Tuesday for three hours while RCMP and others examined the car wreckage.

The car had been stolen early Tuesday from Gordon Stenner's house. It had run off the road near here and was found wrapped around a tree by a passer-by, Bill Smedley.

Smedley said he could find no trace of its occupants and called RCMP, who also searched the area surrounding the wreckage. The Indian was not found until three hours later when RCMP probed into some bushes 15 feet from the car.

He suffered a broken or dislocated hip and cuts and bruises. His name was withheld.

$50,000 FIRE

VANCOUVER—Fire damaged a dozen ice and fuel trucks at the Garvin Ice and Fuel Co. garage on East Fifth Avenue here today. Manager Don Birney said damage would be between $50,000 and $75,000.

SCHOOL COSTS JUMP

VANCOUVER—The provincial government has approved a 1957 school budget for Vancouver in which the city's share was increased by 20 per cent to $10,996,903.

The provincial government's share was $8,200,000, a 10 per cent increase.

The rising costs forced council to pass a by-law Tuesday increasing the school mill rate by more than one-half mill.

NARCOTICS TRIAL

VANCOUVER—An undercover RCMP agent testified in police court Tuesday that a 20-year-old man sold him a piece of a matchstick wrapped in silver paper as a cap of heroin.

Colin Coulson is charged with trafficking in narcotics under a section of the Criminal Code which specifies that trafficking includes any substance represented or held out to be a drug.

Constable Theodore Gangdal testified that last Oct. 5 he gave Coulson $6 to buy him a capsule of heroin. Coulson later met him outside the Broadway Hotel and the two men went into a nearby lane, Gangdal said.

Coulson handed him a ball of silver paper.

SPCA OFFICIALS BLASTED

RICHMOND—Magistrate R. C. Palmer dismissed charges of cruelty against a farmer from the Vancouver suburb of Lulu Island Tuesday after calling down three SPCA officials for their method of taking evidence. Myron Wolk had been charged with permitting his cow to suffer unnecessary pain. The animal died in January of a stomach ailment.

Magistrate Palmer said the SPCA officials gave evidence, without notes, about a conversation which took place six weeks ago although two of them had to have an address written on a slip of paper to refer to it. The third official at first gave the wrong address, later correcting it.

"I will not convict on that sort of evidence," the magistrate said.

UBC BUDGET RISE SEEN

VANCOUVER—The provincial government will be faced with a bigger budget for the University of B.C. next year if the college is to equal salaries given by other universities in Canada.

This was Dr. W. C. Gibson's report to the annual meeting of the faculty association. He said the salary floor recently established at the University of Toronto will increase progressively until 1959 and will set the pace for Canada.

Last year the minimum salary for professors at UBC was $8,000.

DOCK READY IN JUNE

VANCOUVER—A $1,000,000 dock for fishing boats in mid-town False Creek will probably be completed by the end of June, city council was told Tuesday. Council is awaiting word from the federal government, which is building the wharf, about its administration. Vancouver has said it will administer it if Ottawa agrees.

PROFESSOR COMMITTED

VANCOUVER—An assistant professor at the University of B.C. was committed Tuesday for trial on a charge of criminal negligence arising from the traffic death of Kitty Colosi, 7.

Harry Mark Daggett, 33, chemistry instructor at UBC, was charged with the offence Dec. 1, four days after the girl died in hospital of head injuries.

'SHE NEEDED SOME PERSUADING'

Inventor Kept Girl
In Underground Den

LONDON (AP)—A 28-year-old brunette claims an eccentric inventor held her captive for 105 days in a dugout beneath the back garden of his suburban home.

Police removed Marjorie Jordan from the underground den Monday after a neighbor found a note asking for help. The alleged captor, John Bridal, 26, told reporters:

"She was not brought here under force, but she needed some persuading. She was not enthusiastic but agreed to help me with my experiments. I did not keep her against her will, except for the first few days."

In a statement to detectives, however, Miss Jordan declared that Bridal, a complete stranger, had kidnapped her from her bedroom in a lodging house two

HE SAYS he didn't take her by force—she just needed some persuasion, and she helped him with his experiments. Marjorie's room in the cellar was a good room, he maintained.

SASKATCHEWAN FARMS
THREATENED BY FLOODS

KAMSACK, Sask. (CP)—Northeastern Saskatchewan is threatened with serious floods for the third successive year as the raging Assiniboine River overflowed its banks Tuesday onto low-lying farmlands.

The river, a placid meandering stream in fall, rose steadily through the day at the rate of half an inch an hour. All its tributaries ran full with several hours rain adding to the threat.

Two-Mill Boost In Taxes Faces Saanich Areas

Esquimalt Also Increases Rate; Assessment System Under Fire

Saanich finance committee accepted a $2,908,334.50 municipal budget and set 1957 mill rate for its two school districts Monday night.

The committee recommends to council adoption of 33.75 mill tax rate for urban school district 61 and 33 mills for rural district 63.

They represent increases of 2.25 mills and 2 mills respectively over 1956 tax rates in Saanich, the hikes directly due to climbing school costs.

Esquimalt, also affected by higher school costs, Monday night set a rate of 14.94 mills for school purposes in 1957, an increase of .54 mills over 1956. The rate brings to Esquimalt's share of Greater Victoria School district budget an increase of .1 per cent over last year, or total $137,038.

Esquimalt council has yet to bring down 1957 estimates for their municipal expenditures.

BOLD ESTIMATES

In Saanich, although attempts were made by the finance committee to reduce public works estimates, it was decided municipally-initiated works projects are important enough to keep estimates where they are.

It would be improper to keep reducing general expenditures each year to compensate for higher school costs just to keep the mill rate low, committee decided.

This year's total budget represents a $709,475.04 increase over last year's actual expenditure and $501,401.55 greater than the 1956 estimate.

CHANGE UNLIKELY

Unless there are further revisions to comptroller-treasurer John Tribe's estimates as passed by finance committee, these are the figures which will be approved by council.

It is unlikely council will make any alterations since all members of council are members of the finance committee.

The school rate revision for the urban district was made during the past week after late receipt of new assessment figures for the Saanich portion of district 61.

Change was ordered by the provincial assessment commissioner, who was later questioned by council representatives over his action in raising the amount arbitrarily.

LANDS TIED

Coun. Joseph Casey reported in an interview with the commissioner.

"There is nothing we can do about it," he said, explaining assessment figures in the Saanich part of district 61 did not come with assessments on land and properties in Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, the other components of Greater Victoria School District 61.

On the other hand, there was no change to assessments in the rural part of Saanich, or District 63, because these compared favorably with those in Central Saanich and Sidney, the other parts of the rural district.

It was found property turnover affects the assessment level and land transfers in Saanich were greater than in the rest of the urban district.

Coun. S. W. Brock said things will get progressively worse, in this respect, although the assessment was based on the period 1953-55, a comparative boom in Saanich properties.

Saanich will continue to be the area in Greater Victoria where the most property transactions will be made, he said.

In this respect, a prospering municipality is discriminated against, committee men said.

If assessments were based on mortgage values instead of sale prices the assessment calculation would be more fair, Coun. Brock said.

It is obvious that Saanich is the municipality that's "in it," the reeve said.

Love Winner In Dad's Suit Against Bride

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—An 18-year-old bride was released from jail here Tuesday after being held illegally for three days on a complaint laid by her father that she married against his wishes.

Mrs. Mary Goudie walked happily from the courtroom, hand-in-hand with her husband of six weeks.

And Mr. Justice D. C. Wells said that "if any attempt is made to interfere with this girl's liberty again in this shocking way I want to hear about it."

He said Mrs. Goudie's arrest was "illegal and invalid."

Small Balloon Saves Trapped Steeplejack

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Buffalo steeplejack was stranded atop a 250-foot-high smoke stack at a Republic Steel Corporation plant for six hours Tuesday. He was rescued by sending a small weather balloon up inside the chimney, carrying him a rope.

Wallace Kanally, 54, lost the rope and bosun's chair by which he travelled to the top of the chimney.

"When I dropped that line, I said to myself: 'I've got troubles!'" Kanally said after his descent.

The 30-inch diameter, helium-filled balloon—borrowed from the Cleveland weather bureau—carried a small string to which a rope was attached.

Kanally pulled up the rope, fastened it to the top of the chimney and threw one end down to a ladder which workmen had raised to the 190-foot level.

He slid down 60 feet of rope to reach this ladder.

SEARCH RESUMES IN MAY FOR MISSING AIRLINER

VANCOUVER (CP)—Search for a Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star which vanished over the mountains of southwest British Columbia last December with 62 persons aboard will be resumed in May, a TCA spokesman said today.

Detailed plans have not been worked out, the spokesman said, but the search will be a "pretty extensive effort," involving TCA, air force and civilian planes and RCMP.

It will be concentrated in the mountainous area around Hope, where the airliner disappeared in a snowstorm Dec. 9.

Saanich Adopts Wait and See Attitude on Centennial Project

A wait-and-see situation on a centennial project for Saanich developed Monday at a meeting of the finance committee. At the same time Esquimalt council decided to pick its own centennial project for 1958, which is the first clear-cut indication of a Greater Victoria municipality's plans to spend its provincial centenary grant. Saanich stood alone as the municipality which wanted to put its grant toward construction of a new Jubilee Hospital wing as a centennial memorial. Monday night Reeve Arthur Ash said he has been given to understand the provincial centennial committee, which administers the grants, would not allow Saanich to proceed with this plan. "We'll have to revise our thinking on this," the reeve said. Meanwhile Saanich will stay with its earlier intentions unless instructed otherwise by the B.C. committee. The reeve brought up briefly the question of whether it would be morally correct for Saanich to apply the B.C. grant to the hospital wing, which will be constructed anyway through tax-raised contributions from Greater Victoria municipalities. Esquimalt, with the B.C. grant, will have $12,000 for a project. Suggestions for what to spend it on were invited from organizations within the municipality and a meeting to consider projects will be called after presentation of the budget in May.

Saskatchewan Had Troubles, Too

By JOHN MICA
To a visitor from Saskatchewan, the hustle and bustle of British Columbia's centenary celebrations have a familiar ring. We went through it in the wheat province prior to 1955, which was not, I admit, our centenary. But it was our Golden Jubilee, and it seemed to take as much effort to celebrate 50 years as 100 years. There is one problem B.C. is "enjoying" which we escaped. That is the selection of centenary projects to take advantage of matching grants from the provincial government. Saskatchewan avoided this because there were no matching grants. Instead, the provincial government put up about $500,000 through a corporation formed as the Golden Jubilee Committee, but for services and projects of a province-wide character that were available to all communities in their local celebrations. The committee, which made and carried out general policy for the celebrations, was composed of 43 leading citizens from widespread communities headed by Mr. Justice E. M. Culliton. Set up three years in advance of the celebration, the committee established numerous sub-committees to get the ball rolling on various facets of the celebration. Chief goal of the jubilee, as stated at the outset by Premier T. C. Douglas, was to "do honor to the pioneer residents of this province."

PAINT BLITZ SATURDAY

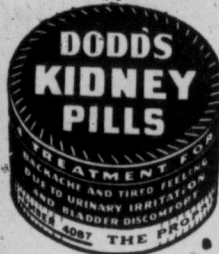

40 Welders of Brush, Gun To Tackle Ancient House

Want to see a house painted in quadruple quick-time? Forty painters Saturday will make a full-scale attack with spray-guns and brushes on a gray, weather-beaten Fernwood Road home which hasn't been painted on the outside for 24 years.

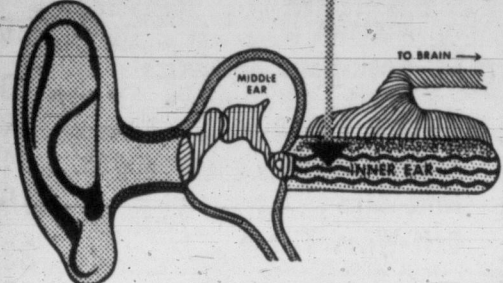

The house, at 2221 Fernwood, owned by Mrs. Rankha Anderson, was selected by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as its paint-up project to mark the start of the Jaycee "paint-up, clean-up and plant-up" campaign.

The paint blitz will be carried out by Local 1163 of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, Don Bushell, business agent, said today.

Work on the exterior of the six-room dwelling, one of the oldest in the district, will start at 8.30 a.m., weather permitting. Local firms are supplying the paint and ladders.

ON STREET-CLEANING MACHINE RENTAL

Esquimalt Probes Payment To Coun. Argyle's Firm

Investigation into the legality of renting equipment from a firm in which one of the councillors is a director was ordered Tuesday night by Esquimalt Council.

Demands for an investigation followed presentation of a $612 bill from Esquimalt Service Ltd. for rental of a street-cleaning machine between March 2 and 27. Public works committee chairman Coun. George Argyle is a director of the firm.

The machine was rented by acting municipal engineer J. O. Leask without council authorization, Coun. J. E. Carey charged. "I want to know why this amount was charged and who will receive it," he said. "Is Esquimalt Service doing business with us? If so, I'm going to take this further."

At the rate of $600 a month, cost of renting a street cleaner would run to the "exorbitant" price of $7,200 a year, the councillor said. Total of $1,500 was spent on manual street cleaning in the municipality last year.

Council pressed for an investigation despite reference to the 1956 amendment to the Municipal Act which states that no person is disqualified from a position on council because he is a shareholder in a company which has dealings with the council.

The inquiry will be conducted by municipal solicitors McIlreath and McIntyre.

Whitey to Use Whip for Second Trip Over Coaching Road

Whatever became of laugh-a-minute Whitey Severson, the "Hey-Gang" kid of the Victoria Shamrocks?

The stocky blond, who used to be the gag-snapping life-of-the-party player with the Shamrocks, grew a lot more than one year older last season in his first hitch as Shamrock coach.

And this year, he is a grimly-resolved skipper, determined to push his team to the top of the lacrosse heap. If he has to step on a few fingers . . . well, that's the way the ball bounces.

He has a job to do and being the comedian is not in his contract.

The chuckles died in Severson's throat last season—the worst period in the history of the Shamrocks.

Whitey stepped into a demanding job last year as freshman coach. He had to defend the Canadian lacrosse championship.

Everything went against him. Key players decided not to report. Transfer applications landed in the trash can. Injuries cut further swaths in the line-up.

The frustrating season ended in a jarring climax when the team walked off the floor during the Intercity League playoffs in a drastic protest against the refereeing.

It was a heart-breaking debut for coach Whitey Severson.

WHITEY SEVERSON

But it was a season of forced maturity for coach Whitey Severson. He hit every rut in the road and he learned how to ride with the bumps.

And so it is that this year, Severson, by his own admission, "will be a tough coach to play for."

He says, "The guys on the team last year thought I was pretty easy to get along with and sometimes they took advantage of that situation. But last year, we were desperate for players and I couldn't bench a guy even if I thought he was loafing."

"This year, we have the players. That makes me the boss and there will be some surprised lacrosse players around this town if they don't put out. Old Softie Whitey is a thing of the past."

"The players must produce. There will be no prima donnas on our club; we just won't have time for them. We will have six defencemen and only four of them can play at one time. The four who play will be the four who hustle the most. We will be benching three forwards for every game. The same selection will apply."

"A guy who doesn't come to practices doesn't play. We have one player right now, a regular last season, who is just teetering. He hasn't been coming to practices and unless he comes up with a good reason, we'll have to wash him out."

ED LONGPRE

"In our games, there will be none of this business of wandering into the dressing room just before game time. They'll be told when to arrive and that time will stick."

Mellowing a little, Severson admitted that his biggest problem will be grouping his wealth of talent in the most productive clusters.

As yet, he has not decided on his three forward lines, but he says, "We will have plenty of scoring power up front and there should be equal balance on all three lines. Another thing that will make us tough to beat is the fact that both our defensive strings will be able to score goals."

"Both our goalies, Gordy Johnston and Don Hamilton, have been looking terrific in practices, so we have no worries there. And Art Green and Ed Longpre have been hustling like crazy since we started. They are really working for places on the team and that's what I like to see."

Severson expects his toughest competition to come from the Nanaimo Timbermen, defending Canadian champions, who open the season here Friday night.

"They'll be the toughest; their offence might not be so much but their defence will be tough."

That is the opinion of the new Whitey Severson, who is pitching into a demanding job with a new attitude that looks becoming on him.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

TO BE TAKEN IN SMALL DOSES

Just in case there are thoughts that the Nanaimo Timbermen have lost any of the zing that carried them to the Canadian lacrosse championship last year, flap an attentive ear while Timbermen president Doug Raifer expounds:

"When we get Harold Fox, Bobby Allan and Barry Ashbee in uniform, we should be a better team than last year. Fox will make up for the loss of Don Sherry to the Shamrocks. Allan is still the best scorer in the league and young Ashbee, Don's brother, will give us the depth we need."

Having played golf with Colin Kilburn recently, I can readily understand why so many of his hockey opponents have tried to unhinge his scalp. That needle goes deep, even on the golf course. Snickering when a guy is at the top of his backswing . . .

The Victoria Shamrocks may yet get a reprieve on their proposal for the use of a referee and two judges of play in all Intercity Lacrosse League games this season. The suggestion was turned down a couple of months ago, but an experiment was conducted in Saturday night's all-star game in Nanaimo, using Eric Dickinson as referee and Victorians Alex Macdonald and Dougie Bamforth as judges. According to reports, the system worked admirably.

I derive very little satisfaction from that dubious statistic that only 6 per cent of golfers in North America break 90 with any consistency.

The Western Hockey League will be fighting for its very life. In addition to the extremely shaky footing of several teams in the league, president Al Leader must find a solution to the bureaucratic step taken by the National Hockey League that would allow the American Hockey League to draft WHL players at will.

The draft right is nothing new, being signed in 1953, but previously the NHL had circumvented its own agreement by protecting WHL players from the AHL draft. But now, the NHL has sold the WHL down a muddy river by removing its protection. Unless Leader wins his fight, the AHL will have a free hand to draft any WHL player who is attached to an NHL team and who has played three or more years in the Western League. Such a weapon would doom the WHL to mediocrity and a slow death.

Troubled by that fourth hole at Colwood? A New York firm is selling floating golf balls at $14.75 a dozen.

Canadian Press staffer Al Markle is back in his little cubicle with his eyes hanging out after seeing the great Toni Sailer in action at Mt. Hood. Markle just can't shake the memory of Sailer careening down the slalom slope, casually adjusting his goggles with both hands while hurtling through the gates.

Don't ever try to tell me that there are any tougher athletes than the bunions-stompingers who take part in that killing Boston Marathon. A guy is on the threshold of greatness when he can run a mile in four minutes. Yet these marathoners maintain better than a five-minute-mile pace over concrete pavements and rutty back roads, under a broiling sun, and they do it for 26 heart-wrenching miles. Try running for two hours or so at a 12-mile-an-hour gait and tell me if you get past the corner store.

The best serious sports book to hit the newstands since Budd Schulberg took a long holiday is Jimmy Piersall's own story of his nervous breakdown, "Fear Strikes Out." This is a brutal story of the mental crack-up of an immensely talented athlete and his fight to climb back from the cobweb-filled pit of mental infirmity to stardom with the Boston Red Sox. This is a great book. Beg it, buy it or steal it. But read it.

LEAD ALLAN CUP FINAL

Dunlop Shows Flyers Mistakes Are Costly

TORONTO (CP)—Spokane Flyers today know how costly a few mistakes can be when playing Whitby Dunlops.

Dunlops converted three Flyer penalties into important goals Tuesday night to whip the Western Canada champions 5-2 and take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven Allan Cup hockey final.

How well Flyers learned their lesson may be known when the two teams continue the series Friday. Third game is scheduled Saturday and a fourth contest next Tuesday. All games are to be played here.

A crowd of 5609 watched Dunlops break through for a pair of goals in the first period while Spokane was short-handed then easily turn aside any threats Flyers could muster in the following 40 minutes.

RUSTY AFTER REST
After the game, both coaches agreed that Flyers were far from finished. After a two-week layoff they figured Spokane had not regained their condition and skating legs.

"We were lucky to win that one," Gagnon said. "If it were not for those three penalties, we might not have the one-game lead. That western club is good. They were out of condition after the long layoff but will be a lot tougher next game."

Coach Roy McBride of Spokane agreed.

"We made some silly mistakes picking up the cheap penalties but we learned our lesson. This series won't be one-sided. We are both good clubs or we wouldn't be here."

YOGI PULLS A LEMON ON LEMON

ROYALS LOSE

Regals, Aces Head For Date

BRANDON (CP)—Brandon Regals today are hot favorites to face Quebec Aces for the Edinburgh Trophy. The hustling Prairie squad roared to a 3-0 series lead against New Westminster Royals in the Western Hockey League finals Tuesday night while Aces were winning the Quebec League finals.

Brandon could make a clean sweep of the Western finals Thursday night in the fourth game. Tuesday night they scored three unanswered goals and held New Westminster to a lone third-period tally to beat the Royals, 3-1.

In the East, Quebec defeated Chicoutimi Saguenays by the same score to win their best-of-seven series 4-2.

SEVEN-MINUTE SPLURGE

Brandon's scoring spurge came in the first seven minutes of the second period as Les Lilley, Ray Marston and Len Haley tallied.

Gord Sinclair, a recruit from Seattle Americans for the series, scored mid-way through the last period and robbed Lucien Dechene of a shutout.

Royals were bolstered by the return of veteran forward Ollie Dorohoy and regular netminder Bev Bentley.

Dorohoy missed the second game while attending his father's funeral. Bentley, who was replaced by Victoria's Marcel Pelletier, missed the first two games because of dizzy spells.

Doug Messier, an Edmonton junior product, was dropped from the Royals defence squad with return of Dorohoy. New Westminster, hit by injuries late in the season, played with three defencemen.

Britain's Barbarians—Rugby As It Should Be

By DOUG PEDEN

Call the average man a barbarian and you may have a fight on your hands. Call John Graham Graham a Barbarian and you'll rekindle fond memories.

The difference is that Graham is a former rugby player, and in rugby circles the word "Barbarian" stands for all that is best in the sport.

Established 67 years ago, the Barbarian Football Club has long been Britain's most famous rugby side. It is unique in that it has no clubhouse, no home ground and no membership fee. Membership can only be gained by being selected to play on the team.

Most of the players selected have won international honors. All have observed the code of sportsmanship. Over the years the Barbarians have established a reputation for brilliantly playing the game for fun without undue emphasis on the result.

A member of the Barbarians in the seasons of 1901 and 1902, Graham still watches rugby at every opportunity and has seldom missed a major game during his long residence in Victoria. And the appearance of the current edition of the Barbarians in Victoria early next month, is one game he is going to see, "even if they have to carry me in on a stretcher."

The weight of 81 years have bowed the big shoulders and his weight of 230 pounds is eight above his former "15 stone 12" in rugby togs, but he was a six-foot, four-inch giant when he played forward with the Lancashire county side. He also played with the Liverpool and Mosely clubs and with Melrose in Scotland, never missing a match or holding up play because of an injury. Graham never won an international cap although he played for the Rest of Scotland against The Cities (Edinburgh and Glasgow) in a Scottish trial and performed with the North team that walloped The South in a trial for the English international side.

ALWAYS INTERESTING

About his own exploits, Graham is modestly reticent. Regarding the Barbarians and rugby, he is an eager talker. "They play rugby as it should be played," he says. "They don't always win, but they always play an interesting, wide-open game," and he rates this year's team "one of the best they've ever had."

The "Baa-Baas" will be breaking with tradition when they set out on their tour of Canada, which opens at Toronto Saturday and will include two games in Vancouver and one in Victoria. They play a B.C. team at Vancouver May 4 and 11 and appear at Macdonald Park at 7 p.m. May 8.

Except for a game in Paris in 1908, the Barbarians have never played outside England or Wales and their usual schedule consists of only six games each year.

Special consideration has been given this time to selecting players capable of handling more than one position since a squad of only 20 players will make the tour. But the roster, as usual, reads like a Who's Who of British rugby.

B.C. players to oppose the tourists will be named after a trial match at Vancouver Saturday.

Seven Victorians—Stu Smith, Harry Turner, Paul Beck, Mike Kaye, Gary Webster, Ray Calton and Frank Gower—will play on a second team against the tentative all-star squad named by the Vancouver Rugby Union.

Some of the Victoria players may win places on the team to meet the Barbarians at Vancouver. Several are expected to be named for the match in Victoria.

Taunting Pancho Doesn't Help Ken

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—

Ken Rosewall says that if tennis fans want to see him put up a better battle against big Pancho Gonzales, the pro champion, they ought to stop making Pancho mad.

"I have enough trouble as it is," the pocket-sized Australian said Tuesday night following a match at Princeton University in another of the tour's one-night stands, "but let Pancho get provoked for some reason and he blows me off the court."

Big Pancho, currently involved in a contract feud with promoter Jack Kramer, apparently wasn't mad Tuesday night. The little Aussie beat him 6-1, 6-3, to reduce Pancho's lead to 37-17 in their series.

"I keep hearing people say that Gonzales has some good nights and some bad nights and that I manage to win when he's in a slump," Rosewall added. "Never since I started playing him have I seen Pancho have a bad day or night. He's always tough. And when somebody makes Pancho sore, I don't have a chance."

Ken recalled a match in Adelaide, Australia. "I was winning the fourth set," he said. "Then some joker started ribbing Pancho. He threw his racket at the microphone. Then he came back and licked me good."

COAST TEAMS SET TO ROLL

Clear Sailing Says Skipper Al

VANCOUVER (CP)—President Al Leader of the Western Hockey League said Tuesday night it appears to be clear sailing for all four coast division clubs to be in the league next season.

Leader said in a statement following a meeting of representatives of all four teams that "every club is willing and ready" to operate next year.

There is one proviso: that "satisfactory rink rentals can be arranged." Leader said he and the teams expect no difficulty in that respect.

Delegates from Seattle, Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria were "unanimously opposed to an amendment to the professional league's affiliation agreement" which has already provoked criticism from other leagues.

That agreement would prevent National Hockey League teams from sending players over 24 years of age to the Western and Quebec Leagues without being first waived by the American League.

Leader said the coast clubs, in agreement with their prairie counterparts, have asked that there be only one inter-sectional trip each season—that coast teams make a single trip to the Prairies during the season and vice versa. Each team made three sorties to the other WHL division last season.

Leader said the WHL regular annual meeting will be held here in May 16-17.

With the air of a man putting an emphatic end to persistent questions, Leader said he has never received Edmonton Flyers' written notification that they plan to withdraw from the league.

"I have never received that registered letter," he said. He indicated he had some doubt whether the letter had ever been sent.

Dr. Rupert Clare, chairman of the Edmonton Exhibition Association's hockey committee, said last Friday that the Flyers had sent a registered letter to Leader announcing Edmonton's intention of withdrawing because it felt the National Hockey League was hogging the benefits of professional hockey.

Reports from Edmonton indicated that the Flyers' withdrawal was aimed at shocking professional hockey into a more even distribution of hockey benefits to leagues below the NHL's level.

Jake Poacher, Claim Rocks

Accuse 'Bellie Coach'; Bremner Injures Foot

The Victoria Shamrocks have issued a blunt warning to New Westminster Salmonbellies coach Jake Proctor to keep his poaching fingers out of Victoria.

Coach Whitey Severson said Tuesday, "I have a real beef with Proctor; he has been trying to steal three of our players. He didn't get anywhere with his ideas, but we don't like him coming over here looking for players."

Severson declined to name the three players sought by the wily Proctor, who switched this year from the Vancouver club to the rebuilt New Westminster team.

He did say, however, that all three were with the Shamrocks last season and have been signed for this season.

Severson said: "It was nothing but downright poaching. He approached three of them with an offer. They turned him down and told us about it."

"I realize Jake is going all out for a winner and I am glad to see it. But with all the material he has available on the mainland, he doesn't have to come over here for players. There are plenty of good juniors over there, he could bring up."

Meanwhile, with their season opener drawing closer, the Shamrock officials were anxiously awaiting word on three import players who are heading towards Victoria. Jack Blonda, Bob Dobbie and Don Gear have not been heard from but are thought to be on their way and are expected to be in town for Friday night's game with Nanaimo Timbermen.

However, it is not thought likely that Bob Bremner, former New Westminster and Nanaimo star, will be in harness Friday night. A high-rigger by trade, Bremner has injured his foot and will be out of action for a few days.

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

One thing about the sport of window shopping for outdoor equipment is that the pastime seldom becomes dull. Every week brings something new as manufacturers continue their never-ending race to produce new stuff that will whet the appetites of potential customers. And, as usual, sportsmen-browsers through the sporting goods shops this spring will find a host of gadgets that weren't on the shelves last summer.

Fishing, especially since the spinning bug scamped across the country, is always responsible for the most changes, but there are other items that will also draw a second look from the sportsmen on the pavements.

In the latter category is an introduction that should fill the bill for training junior in the safe handling of firearms and summer plinking at targets. This is the new Model 552 .22 rifle put out by Remington as an improvement on their Model 550.

The sturdy firearm is a recoil-operated job that handles either short, long or long-rifle cartridges without any adjustment. You can even mix the loads.

They are out of season now, but the dacron-insulated quilted suits of underwear, that finally reached Victoria a few months ago, should be in good supply for next winter's duck shooting and steelheading. Weighing only a few ounces, the suits are washable and equal in warming qualities to 26 pounds of pure underwear. The only trouble is, they are still expensive.

Also due to be more plentiful are the latex rubber "Totes" waders, that come in waist or chest lengths at around 20 bucks. These seamless, form-fitting waders are ultra light, yet tough, and allow a freedom of movement denied by the stiffer types.

There are also some innovations for the boating clan, particularly in the new collection of power-packed outboards, and campers, but the anglers get the biggest choice.

Japanese tackle outfits are threatening to muscle in on a bigger portion of the trade this year. After receiving only lukewarm reception of their earlier offerings, which were usually of inferior quality, they have come up with a flock of items that compare well with more expensive equipment.

One example is a spinning reel selling for around $15 that is a duplicate of a French production at almost twice the price. They are so much alike that parts are interchangeable.

The Japanese have also copied other reels and make up a complete spinning kit that costs no more than a medium-priced reel. Their trolling reels, glass rods and dry flies should also find favor with anglers who have to stretch their dollars.

On the subject of reels, there is an Australian plastic trolling model in either four or five-inch size capable of handling nylon line and cheaper than others of equal strength.

The Quick people have put out a spinning reel, adaptable for left or right-hand use, that is finding favor and Bronson is offering an enclosed-spool casting reel that operates smoothly with monofilament.

Death knell of the old steel telescope rods that used to rust solidly and defy you to pull them out, may have been sounded by the new glass telescopic sticks. The nine-foot fly rod pushes into three feet and the spinning rod squeezes down to two and one-half feet for carrying.

For lures, a new Strip-Marker that uses whole minnows should soon be on the market. Completely tested under fishing conditions by manufacturer Rhys Davis-Minnon-Teaser is now in production.

Spincasters have dozens of choices in the lure department. Lure Jensen has come out with several new versions and Gately of Vancouver has one of the best early sellers, called Deadly Dick and available in quarter and half-ounce sizes. For the trollers, another Vancouver firm is introducing the Jim Dandy spoon.

And there are many others. But for each new item that makes a hit, an old one is pushed toward oblivion. Despite fair popularity in these parts, the Kam Lure and Limper spoon have been discontinued and will soon have disappeared from the shelves.

The seeds of another crop have been sown. The taste of the outdoor clan will decide how many newcomers will survive the pressure of competition.

Tessier Leads Quebec Aces

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—Quebec Aces edged Chicoutimi Saguenéens 3-1 Tuesday night to win the Quebec Hockey League best-of-seven final 4-2. The Aces now go against the winner of the Brandon-New Westminster series for the Western Hockey League championship in the Edinburgh Trophy series.

A penalty to John Hanna of the Saguenéens opened the door for Quebec and the league-champion Aces never were headed. Twenty-five seconds after Hanna went off in the second period, Orval Tessier gave Quebec a 1-0 lead, scoring on passes from Jean-Paul Lamarande and Brent Macnab.

Stan Maxwell made it 2-0 late in the period but Chicoutimi's Greig Hicks cut the margin to 2-1 in the last minute of play, scoring while Macnab was in the penalty box.

Tessier got his second goal late in the third period to sew up the victory.

Robbins to Miss Barbarians' Tour

PENARTH, Wales (Reuters)—A shoulder injury suffered Tuesday in diving in to a swimming pool has cost Peter Robbins, the Oxford University and England wing forward, his place in the Barbarians Rugby Union team which leaves tonight for a six-match tour of Canada.

Robbins was with the Barbarians side which toured Wales during the Easter holiday.

His place for the Canadian visit will be taken by Tom Reid, an Irish international who toured South Africa with the British Isles team in 1955.

Youngsters Take Note: Old Hands Twitching

By Associated Press

The kids who have had charge of the batting titles for the last three seasons had better get a hustle on. A couple of old hands, Stan Musial and Ted Williams, appear to be back in business as the two best hitters in baseball.

Musial, 36, already has declared he's going to pace himself this time to avoid any late-season weariness while shooting for his seventh National League bat title while with St. Louis Cardinals. In addition, he's giving himself a cushion with one of his best springs ever, batting a crisp .500 with 12 for 24.

TOPS IN AMERICAN

Williams, 37, already has termed this a make-or-break year. "If I don't hit .330, hit between .25 and .30 home runs and knock in 100 runs I'll know the handwriting is on the wall," and as of today tops the American League with a .423 average.

Musial managed just a single in three at bats Tuesday night, and while it put him just seven short of 2,800 major league hits, it wasn't enough to ward off a 10-inning, 6-4 Cincinnati victory over the Cardinals.

Williams, however, slugged his 420th major league home run and his 2,200th hit while driving in two runs to pack away a 3-1 victory for Boston Red Sox over Baltimore.

Elsewhere in the National, Chicago Cubs put an end to Milwaukee's unbeaten string with Cal Neeman's first major league home run beating the Braves 3-2 in 10 innings. Rookie Pete Burnside permitted just three singles for a 1-0 New York Giants victory in the only other game scheduled.

HITS BIG ONE

In the American, Roy Sievers continued his hefty homer hitting for Washington, unloading a two-run, two-out home run in the ninth as the Senators defeated New York Yankees 3-1. Cleveland, with Herb Score winning his first with a four-hitter, handed Chicago White Sox their first defeat 5-0, and Kansas City continued to harass Detroit Tigers, 5-4.

Injury Jinx Still Biting Battered Stars
HOLLYWOOD (BUP)—Pitcher Roger Sawyer became the 13th early-season casualty of the Hollywood Stars Tuesday night when he was struck on the head by a line-drive during warmup practice prior to the Hollywood-Portland series opener.

It was believed he may have suffered a slight concussion. Precautionary x-rays will be taken today.

At the same time, the Stars disclosed that Dick Smith, who suffered a broken jaw in a collision with teammate Spook Jacobs at San Diego two weeks ago, may be back in action to ward the end of this week. Jacobs, who received a fractured skull, will be out about a month.

Hollywood also announced that hurler George Witt will be sidelined for about a week with a swollen right elbow.

Blewett Wins Tourney
Pat Blewett scored 99-33-66 Monday at Gorge Vale Golf Club to take the B.C. Government Employees' annual golf tournament and the H. K. Perry Trophy with low net for 18 holes while John Furmston and Claude Heggie tied for low gross honors with scores of 83.

Kicking Ace Back With Tiger-Cats
HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats announced Tuesday Cam Fraser, Canadian football's top punter, has signed for his fifth Big Four Football Union season.

Fraser has led the Big Four's booters ever since he stepped in to kick during a 1952 playoff game. In 1955 he set a Canadian record for average distance—47.4 yards—and has had only one kick blocked during his career.

Harry Brought Tools; Works Up 3-0 Record

By DON THACKREY
United Press Sports Writer

Harry Dorish, the 35-year-old plumber who has been pitching for the Boston Red Sox, did not leave his tools behind when he moved out to the Pacific Coast League.

Dorish, strictly a reliever in recent years, has started three games for the San Francisco Seals and he has finished what he started each time as the result is the only PCL hurler with a 3-0 record. And in addition, Dorish has given up only one earned run this year for a 0.33 earned run average.

Tuesday night Dorish pitched the Seals to within a game of the top of the pile when he beat Vancouver, 3-1.

In other action, Seattle scored a run in the ninth to beat San Diego, 3-2, while Hollywood got the winning run in the eighth in a 4-3 win over Portland. Sacramento just got of Portland, too many runs too often and dumped Los Angeles, 7-2.

The only run Dorish allowed the league-leading Vancouver Mounties was an unearned one that tied things up in the sixth inning. But the Seals, also had to have some defensive mishaps to help them win. Two Mountie bobbles in the eighth gave the Seals the winning runs and sent George Bamberger down to defeat.

Ray Orteig, Seattle catcher, grounded out after three singles had filled the bases in the top of the ninth to allow Jim Dyck to score the winning run against the Padres. Bill Kennedy took the win and Dolan Nichols, third San Diego pitcher, was the loser.

Carlos Bernier, shifted from the outfield to third base, came through with three singles for the Hollywood Stars as they broke a five-game losing streak at the expense of Portland.

Babe Ruth Managers Select Teams

Managers of the six Victoria Babe Ruth League baseball teams selected their rosters at a "player auction" Monday night and have scheduled practice sessions for their teams this week.

No Worries Says Robinson
CHICAGO (AP)—Middleweight champion Gene Fullmer and challenger Sugar Ray Robinson took a preliminary medical examination today for their 15-round title bout at Chicago Stadium May 1.

Robinson, who hasn't looked very sharp in his drills, says he has nothing to worry about. He weighs 162½ pounds and expects to be down to 159 for the fight.

Fullmer has displayed fine form in tune-up work but hasn't impressed former heavyweight champion Joe Louis. Louis has not yet picked the man he thinks will win and has said he doesn't think Fullmer can kayo Robinson.

LOCKE ENTERS TOURNEY

LONDON (AP)—Bobby Locke, South Africa's star golfer and three-time winner of the British Open, was among 195 competitors named Tuesday for the $7,532 international tournament at Southport and Ainsdale May 7-10.

"How long has this been going on," was the question put to "Easy Ed" Ash, boss of Victoria's Farmers Construction baseball team who are entered this year in the newly-formed Northwest International Semi-Pro Baseball League, which will open here May 20 when the builders host South Burnaby in a holiday double-header.

He stopped, thought about it for a minute or two, and then answered with a chuckle, "Oh, about 32 years, I guess, off and on."

A few more minutes' conversation and a story unfolded about a man who had never played any appreciable amount of baseball, but had the touch of an expert when it came to showing young players how it was done.

His first taste of the sport came in 1925 when he played in Saanich and Oaklands in the old Oaklands League, whose headquarters was Central Park on Quadra Street. He played with the league for four years before the wanderlust got him and he went on the boats in 1929.

On returning home he turned out with the View Royal club and played with them until 1934. When he ended his playing career he started on a task that was to occupy him to the present day, coaching.

His first team was Burnside Sr. "C" softballers with whom he stayed until 1937 when he was asked to try and do something with the cellar-dwelling Spencer's team. He did, picking them up and moving them to the top of the league and the playoff championship.

When VMD started casting around for a coach their eyes landed on Ed. He took on a team that boasted players of the ilk of Tony and Pete Leswick, of hockey fame, who he coached to the city Senior "B" Softball title. The following year, 1943, he found a new sponsor for the team and they became Douglas Tire, and again took the "B" title.

In 1945 he gave it all up and went housebuilding, a resolution that was to last for six years until he was approached by a group of boys, just out of high school, who wanted to play baseball but had no sponsor, no coach and didn't know how to get either.

His son, Pete, was one of the boys and this might have had some bearing on his decision to return to the third base box.

He found George Farmer,

"The best sponsor I've ever known," and the boys were in business in 1952 as Farmer Construction.

The "kids," Stu Mitchell, Jack Shields, Ron Martin, Bill Garner, Lowell Hodges, Pete Ash and Bernie Anderson are still with him from the "old" originals, took off running and won the league but dropped the playoffs to Doug Peden's Chinooks.

The team played in every up-island tournament they could enter but could never make the grade, although they usually placed second. With two exceptions, they won the city league, losing to Chinooks their first year, and last season there was no local loop.

When asked what he thought of the present team, he said that it is the best he's ever had and was fully confident that they are well able to take the league title.

His pitchers are pitching and his hitters have already found the range of the centre-field fence, with Pete Ash and Charlie Boyd running up expenses by smashing long ones over the scoreboard.

Bill Prior is pitching like an 18-year-old and Bill Garner is in better pre-season shape than ever before.

Behind these two come Art Worth, Lowell Hodges, Jake Jacobson and possibly Dave Emery, who is playing with the Babe Ruth League but sets a light glowing in Ed's eye every time he is mentioned.

Two other well-known sports faces who will possibly turn up in Farmer uniforms are Bruce Carmichael and Larry Leach, of the Victoria Cougars.

Jim Harford is the best backstop in the league, but even here Ash is three deep. Farmers are assured of 42 home games this season with a maximum of two road trips, both at the start of the season.

South Burnaby will be here first when they play a double-header on May 20, and Deming Zenders will be the first American team in June.

"All the team needs now is fan support," stated Ed. The only reason we are trying to keep the sport open is to give the minor league players some place to go when they are too old for Pony League."

Colorful and strong, the team should provide a good summer of entertainment for Victoria baseball fans.

ARCHIVIST'S VIEW

Showed Canada's True Character

A by-product of the "Norman Incident" is the picture of Canadians as they really are—a hot-tempered people.

This was the assertion of Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, when he addressed the Victoria Kiwanis Club, Tuesday, in the Empress Hotel, in its observance of the international organization's 38th annual Canada-United States Goodwill Week.

"Perhaps this incident has shown us for the first time what we are like," Mr. Ireland said in an obvious but not specifically stated reference to the controversy following the suicide of Canadian Ambassador Herbert E. Norman.

BEHIND THE FACADE

"We often have believed Canada to be a stolid nation not easily moved but I'm sure that the events of the past two weeks show that we are hot-tempered behind that facade of stolidity."

Canadians should realize that Americans are an equally sensitive people. The Norman incident could be used as a stepping stone to better relations with the United States if it helped Canadians "understand ourselves", a prerequisite for true goodwill.

Activities of the United States Senate may seem odd to Canadians at times but they must realize there are foibles and quirks in the Canadian governmental process too.

"SOLD DOWN RIVER"

"To a large extent we have been sold down the river in being nurtured on myths about the relations between our two countries instead of facing realities," he said.

"We Canadians will just have to accept the fact that we are what we are today largely as a result of the United States."

The American revolution set two parts of the North American continent on different paths towards the same goal of a democratic life. For goodwill to continue to function, it is necessary that both sides accept the differences in governmental processes and learn to understand them.

"Another great myth is the 'unfortified frontier' of 100 years. Factually, that is plain hokum. We should know it isn't true because up to 1871 on the San Juan Islands there were armed camps of both countries facing each other and that's less than 100 years ago."

"British Columbia is on the map today for only one reason—fear of the United States. We were established as a bulwark against the United States. The same motive lay behind the formation of Canada."

The touchstone of the era of Canadian-United States goodwill policy, often forgotten, was the Treaty of Washington, in 1871, when the United States recognized that the people in the northern half to pursue their own destiny as had those in the southern half.

A new era has arrived in which the United States is growing increasingly dependent on Canada as a result of the depletion of its own natural resources.

"Perhaps the average Canadian and American citizen isn't aware of it but the leaders are," he said. An indication of this dependence was the great inflow of United States capital for development of Canadian resources.

In the same sense, the United States was becoming more dependent on Canada in international relations.

"When they completed their revolution, they virtually closed the doors on the rest of the world and got busy with internal problems of growth. Now the doors have burst open again under world pressures but we never went through that."

"Our grandparents had to interpret the United States to Great Britain, but the reverse is true today. We have to interpret Great Britain to the United States."

"But that can be done only if we have factual knowledge," Mr. Ireland said. "If we're content to live in a pipedream assumption that goodwill between us will exist without our working at it then we're in trouble. We can't leave it to good luck."

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Ben Barber
(MOTHER OF 5)

The play pen is a wonderful invention, surely. But since so many hours are whiled away in this little "housing development" baby should learn to accept it as a haven and not a prison. A few helps to make baby's "own home" a happy one:

• Don't keep baby cooped up for overlong periods. Take him out before he fusses . . . not after.

• A few toys are more fun than an avalanche. Too many toys may frustrate baby, make him unable to decide which to give his attention to.

• Frequent visits from you, accompanied by a smile and a cheery wave, keep baby confident that you are close at hand.

Has baby had the pleasure of sampling Gerber Baby Cereal lately? It's pretty certain to meet with delighted approval. First, there's taste: just a gentle touch of toasting brings out the subtle barley flavor. Then there's texture: when mixed with formula, milk or other liquids, it has a consistency so smooth it's perfect for an unsophisticated palate. Like all 5 Gerber Cereals, the Barley Cereal is enriched with iron, calcium and B-vitamins . . . important factors in the life of a growing baby.

"Shop" talk. When you take baby on marketing excursions, try to schedule shopping times after baby has had his nap. A refreshed baby is less apt to fuss . . . more apt to enjoy the outing.

Once baby's menu has expanded to a full food schedule, imagination in varying baby's menus becomes more important. No trouble when you serve Gerber Strained Foods. Over 39 varieties including fruits, vegetables, meats, Vegetable Meat Dinners and desserts. All prepared from choice ingredients—carefully processed to retain natural flavors, true-to-nature colors and a high proportion of the wholesome food values Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

3,000-MILE RANGE

France to Show Off New Jet Transport

PARIS (AP)—France soon will be showing North and South America its bid for jet transport sales.

The swept wing Caravelle will visit 25 cities during the next three months. It is built to carry 64 to 80 passengers at speeds touching 500 miles an hour. Maximum range is put at 2,000 miles. The two engines, which look small in contrast to the plane's 104 feet, are located on the fuselage, just in front of the tail section.

The Avon engines, built by Britain's Rolls Royce, lift the 51,800-pound plane off the runway easily and boost it to a cruising altitude of some seven miles in a few minutes.

The Caravelle is built by the government-owned Sud-Est Aviation Company. The price tag today is $1,940,000 and its builders claim that it is "the most economical of all aircraft of its range."

Only two prototypes have been built.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Dolores Jean Bucco, aged 13, of Loudonville, N.Y., for her question:

What Makes the Ocean Salty?

A robbery story usually ends in capture and the criminals are put safely behind bars. But the biggest robbery story in the world goes on unchecked day and night. The criminals are well known, but they will never be put behind bars. For they are the little streams and rivers that seep through the soil and gush over the stones. They have robbed the land of billions of tons of salt and dumped the loot into the sea.

This robbery began a couple of billion years ago. The first climate on earth was horrible. The ground was bare and barren of all living things. Torrents of rain fell ceaselessly from the gloowering skies. It pelted the new made ground and gushed over the jagged rocks. The first streams and rivers rushed down the slopes to pour their waters into the deep ocean basins.

Running water, they say, can wear away the hardest stone. And so it can. Its greedy little tongues are always eager to dissolve the softer materials in the rocks. This weakens the hardest stones. They crack, chip and break into fragments. The running water laps at the rough edges and dissolves them until they are smooth.

All these dissolved chemicals are toted along by the thirsty water. It always carries a big load of salts, because these chemicals are most easily dissolved. But, in smaller amounts, almost all the other elements are also dissolved and toted along in the running water. The loot includes calcium, cobalt and even metals such as copper, silver and gold.

All this plunder is taken by the big rivers and emptied into the sea. In the beginning, the sea water was only slightly salty. But salts and other chemicals increased as the rivers endlessly emptied their loot-laden waters. Imagine a tank of sea-water a mile square and a mile high. In that cubic mile, there is about 133 million tons of ordinary salt plus about 33 million tons of other chemical salts. There is also 93 million dollars worth of dissolved gold and over 8 million dollars worth of silver plus various quantities of some 50 other elements.

A little of the salt is tossed high on ocean waves and carried off by the air. It floats aloft, helping to gel raindrops. But most of it stays in the sea. It is too heavy to join the rising vapor as the sun evaporates the surface of the water. So, the sea is getting saltier all the time. Every day the little streams gurgle along with their loaded chemicals dissolved from the ground. Every day the rivers add more and more plunder to the sea—and nobody can do a thing to stop this greatest of all robberies.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Penny Entringer, age 7, of Chester, S. D., for her question:

Is the bat a bird or an animal?

All living creatures are either plants or animals. So both the bat and the bird are animals. However, the bird belongs in the bird class and the bat belongs in the mammal class class of animals. Birds have feathers, no fingers on their wings and no teeth. They also lay eggs. The bat has downy fur, one claw on his wings and a fine set of teeth. And Mrs. Bat does not lay eggs. Her tiny babies are born alive.

The bat is classed as a mammal animal because her babies feed on mother's milk. Cats, dogs, cows and horses are also mammal animals because their babies feed on mother's milk. Mrs. Bat, like all the mammal animals, is a wonderful mother. At first, she must leave her helpless babies while she goes out at dusk to feed on insects. But she cradles them safely while she is away. She may put them on a ledge high in a rocky cave or she may hide them in the cozy pocket of a hollow tree. Later they are strong enough to cling onto her fur. Then she takes them on flying carpet trips when she goes out hunting for insects.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Qualicum Beach Group: Rennie Haynes, president of the Mt. Arrowsmith District Boy Scout Association, gave a talk to the Rotary Club.

He stressed that no one is too old to help, scouting, saying that Lord Baden-Powell was over 50 years old when he first organized the movement.

May 2 has been set for the "blitz night" of fund raising for Scouting activities here. Plans were made at a meeting of the group committee at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Almond.

It was reported there were now 31 Cubs under Rev. W. H. Bullock and 12 Scouts on the roll with Albert Kennedy.

The district will hold the annual dinner meeting May 9 in the Qualicum Beach Community Hall.

Victoria District Notes: Glenford Avenue Pack, Akela Jean Shemilt took 24 boys of the pack for a day's ramble to Sayward Beach Monday. Building lairs, shell collecting and nature lore were part of the activities, a camp-fire being held at the end. The next regular meeting will be held on Monday, May 6.

Fairfield Group: Members of the Rover Crew and Scout troop under leadership of Scouters Don Hamer and Glen Oliphant will leave by air for Seattle on Friday evening. They are attending the Seattle Area Boy Scouts annual Scout Circus; a plane has been chartered for the trip.

The Fairfield Rover Crew are planning a rifle shooting competition with members of the View Royal Crew, at the University School rifle range.

Lake Cowichan Group: A Father and Son banquet was held last week in the Cowichan Lake Community Hall at which it was reported there are now 54 Cubs and Scouts in the district.

D. A. Saunders, president of the district addressed the gathering, stressing that co-operation and help of all parents was needed in the work of Scouting, helping the boys to have fun and gain a broader outlook on life.

District commissioner D. Cree told the fathers there were lots of things they could do to help and mentioned that the present leaders were like themselves, not highly trained in a special field, but men who were endeavoring by their services to better the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burrows were introduced, representing the Canadian Legion, which local branch sponsored the group in the area. The evening finished by a showing of the picture, the 8th World jamboree.

Huge Art Festival Set at Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—This city hopes to make a cultural splash next year that will make any similar Canadian undertaking in the past a mere plop in comparison.

Known as the First Annual Vancouver Festival of the Arts, it will be held from July 19 through Aug. 10 in 1958, British Columbia's centennial year.

Persons associated with the venture speak of it in terms of the Salzburg and Edinburgh Festivals. Unlike the Stratford, Ont., Shakespeare Festival it will attempt to embrace all the arts.

"There is no reason why we shouldn't have an allied arts festival that's the finest of its kind anywhere in the world," says W. C. Mainwaring, festival president.

The budget for this first festival is $310,000 but one official said "we won't worry if we go $100,000 over that."

Some of B.C.'s biggest business concerns are supporting the production with multi-thousand-dollar bequests. The B.C. Electric Co. has given $50,000.

OPERA PLANNED

Festival officials announced that Dr. Gunther Rennert, producer and director of the Stuttgart and Hamburg state operas, has been engaged to produce and direct an opera.

They described him as "perhaps the greatest opera director in Europe today." His engagement for the Vancouver festival would mark his North American debut.

Nicholas Goldschmidt, now head of the Toronto Conservatory's opera school, this June takes over full-time direction of the festival. He will be both artistic and managing director.

Artists engaged so far include Glenn Gould, Toronto's piano virtuoso, and William Primrose, internationally known violinist.

Two competitions are being conducted for composers' resident in Canada on or before January 1, 1957. One offers a $1,000 prize for the best chamber music composition and the other $1,000 for the best symphonic work. The contest closes December 15.

Lester Sinclair, Toronto playwright, has completed the specially commissioned play dramatizing the growth of British Columbia and attempts are being made to engage "a prominent young New York director" to direct it.

EXCLUSIVELY YOURS:

Censors can't do anything about J. Jayne. Mansfield's measurements, but the towel she wanted to wear in a massage-table scene just acquired a lot of new territory — even if she is the best towel-holder in town.

Jayne wrapped only in a four-by-two-foot towel zoomed her to pin-up fame in the Broadway show, "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" But for the film version, Hollywood censors ordered a towel with a "minimum measurement of four by eight feet."

Added instruction read: "Suggest Miss Mansfield use with caution." If you know Jayne, and almost everyone does, this may be difficult. But at least off the screen Jayne isn't going to be out in front here, there and everywhere from now on, her career guides have decided. She's been showing up for everything from ribbon snipping at bargain basement openings to battleship launchings.

An African tourist agency is reportedly organizing a special "Hollywood Safari"—air-conditioned tents with portable swimming pool, hi-fi sets, tape recorders and a supply of tranquilizer pills for all guests. Sounds to me like the Clark Gable-Grace Kelly-Ava Gardner MGM location trip to Africa for "Mogambo."

Charlton Heston as Moses in "The Ten Commandments" missed an Oscar, but the film is a box-office winner — one million dollars gross in the few cities where it's playing. IT'S WHITE TIE and tails for Clark Gable in several sequences of "Teacher's Pet." Reminds me of the director Raoul Walsh's comment about Gable's lasting power: "He's the only rugged star in Hollywood who can look good in a western shirt or in a boiled one."

This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones: Bob Stack, the neurotic drunk in "Written on the Wind," is hitting the bottle again. No, not because he didn't win an Oscar. It's the milk bottle. He has the midnight watch feeding "two-months-old daughter Liz."

MIKE TODD'S at the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas, talking to Jose Greco, Mike's considering teaming the great Spanish dancer with Cyd Charisse in "Death is a Dancer."

Credit David Niven for the right idea about raising kids in Hollywood. Refusing to have photos taken of his sons, Davey, 12, and Jamie, 9, he told me on the "My Man Godfrey" set: "I don't believe it's good for them to be publicized with photos in newspapers and magazines. It centres unnecessary attention on them at school and sets them apart from their schoolmates when they should not be."

Niven says he's even coached the lads to say about their pop: "He's a terrible actor who has been lucky in the movies."

'Goose Grease' Benny Wows Philharmonic

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra may never be the same.

Jack Benny, the violinist from Waukegan, Ill., made a guest appearance with the orchestra Tuesday night at Philharmonic Auditorium. He played selections from Sarasate, Mendelssohn and Rimsky-Korsakoff.

Such music lovers as Frank Sinatra, James Stewart, Claudette Colbert, Dana Wynter, Clifton Webb, Gregory Peck, Ann Miller and Sam Goldwyn paid $100 a seat to hear Benny's west coast debut as a concert artist. The event was for the benefit of Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

Charity netted a reported $100,000. What happened to music is another matter. Immaculate in white tie and tails, the violinist played vigorously while carrying on a running feud with the concert master. The latter interrupted with violin solos and was removed from the stage.

Gracie Cancels Out Proposed TV Series

CAPRI, Italy (Reuters)—Stage star Gracie Fields confirmed Tuesday that she has withdrawn from a planned U.S. television series, "Min and Bill." "It would have meant getting up at six and being on the set from nine to five every day for nine months, and I am afraid my tummy wouldn't have stood it," she said. She runs a luxury resort here.

Symphony Group Offers Concert For City's May 24 Celebrations

The Victoria Symphony Society has offered to put on a concert as part of the May 24 celebrations—providing a sponsor can be found.

The offer was made Tuesday to the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association by conductor Hans Gruber.

Also being considered by the celebration body is an official welcoming party May 17 when Photographic Society of America delegates come here from Seattle for a big convention.

The committee turned down a request by the Old Age Pensioners' Organization No. 3 to carry a blanket during the parade to collect money for a clubhouse.

Reason given was that it was felt that when people donated items and paid admission to events, collecting for another fund would not be right.

Parade float entries have been received from the Pacific National Exhibition, and New Westminster will send its May Queen and a float. Vic Van Isle Kinsmen have offered a contingent of clowns for the parade and pageant.

Rural Saanich Water Board Proposed

BRENTWOOD — Formation of a water board to serve the whole of Saanich peninsula was suggested Tuesday night by Victor Dawson, chairman of Brentwood Waterworks District board of trustees. "I feel the provincial government, through its member, John Tisdale, should take definite steps to set up such a board," he said. "That is the answer to the expansion problem on the peninsula, both present and future."

The board has recently completed negotiations with the transport department on the purchase of Elk Lake water which saw the price increased from 12 to 23 cents per thousand gallons, effective July 1. Price to individual customers has not yet been decided, but small consumers "will not be appreciably affected," Mr. Dawson said.

LONDON (Reuters) — The governor of Cyprus said Tuesday the troubled British island colony is indispensable if British air power is to be used in support of the Atlantic and Baghdad Middle East defence pacts.

Sir John Harding said: "If British air power is to be used in support of the right flank of NATO and the member countries of the Baghdad Pact, Cyprus is indispensable to that effort."

Driver Faces Trial On Negligence Count

COURTENAY (CP)—Donald Van Pelt, 23, was committed Tuesday for trial on a charge of criminal negligence following a traffic accident in which a passenger in his car was killed.

He is expected to be tried at the Fall Assizes in Nanaimo. He was granted $1,000 bail.
Brian Morrison, 21, died March 22 en route to hospital from a ruptured liver suffered after Van Pelt's car left the highway a few miles south of here. Another passenger, Cyril Rhead of Port Alberni, suffered head cuts.

Rhead testified Tuesday at the preliminary hearing that the speedometer of the car registered between 70 and 90 miles an hour during the trip from Campbell River to Courtenay.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY DINNER

U.K. 'Showing Way' In Defence Policy

England is once again "showing the way" in national defence, Capt. D. W. Groos, RCN, told Victoria members of the Royal Society of St. George, Tuesday night.

"Instead of trying to fight off a nuclear attack, she would rely on immediate retaliation," he told a St. George's Day banquet in the Glenshiel Hotel.

Capt. Groos, who recently returned from a trip to England, replied to the toast of the Navy, Army and Air Force—in that order—but he said:

"Inter-service rivalry is now a thing of the past; inter-service solidarity is what matters today."

He was introduced by his old headmaster, K. C. Symons of St. Michael's School, who is now president of the St. George Society in Victoria.

IN DANGER

"Our Empire is again in danger," warned ex-Mayor Claude Harrison, replying to a toast to England and William Shakespeare, whose birth and death occurred on St. George's Day.

Mr. Harrison said the forces of evil which have threatened England in two world wars are now working to "infiltrate and destroy the minds of people living in the peace and security of the Crown."

"Other nations are jealous of England and her possessions and they are slowly whittling away her power until the time comes when they can move in and take what they want."

"What they do not comprehend is that they are still up against those stubborn, bulldog qualities that have enabled the Old Land to withstand evil against frightful odds in two world wars."

Mr. Harrison added that "Canada, too, is threatened by infiltration methods of warfare."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow replied to a toast to Canada. Mrs. Bertha Parsons, secretary of the Victoria St. George Society, read greetings from St. George societies in England, New Zealand, Australia, United States, Mexico and all parts of Canada, including Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Regina and London, Ont.

EGAD! ENGLISH HAGGIS? IS THERE NO JUSTICE?

Victoria Scots never lose an opportunity of "making a terrible hullabaloo" with their bagpipes and haggis," K. C. Symons, president of the Royal Society of St. George in Victoria, said Tuesday night. "I think we should adopt some kind of English haggis—it might help us to compete with the Scots in celebrating our national days."

Speaking of Brawls How's This for Size?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The piercing screams of singer Yma Sumac's five-octave voice provided the sound effects for a clothes-ripping, head-bumping family brawl noisy enough to win the envy of filmland's best domestic battlers.

This Peruvian extravaganza took place Tuesday in the $100,000 home of Miss Sumac's estranged husband, Moises Vivanco, 38.

In the somewhat weird cast of characters were three private eyes, two Inca folk dancers, a collie dog, and a bewildered harpist who speaks no English. The collie dog had the most fun. On the sidelines were lots of reporters.

Leading up to the Latin-American donnybrook were:

Vivanco's loss of a paternity suit brought by Maureen Shea, 22, last January. He was ruled father of her twin girls, born in 1954.

A preliminary fought Monday night, in which Vivanco said he was roughed up by two private detectives who threatened to shoot him.

The main event occurred Tuesday, when Miss Sumac went to the Vivanco home to pick up some of her personal things.

Vivanco welcomed Miss Sumac but objected to the presence of the private eyes. Fred Otash, 220-pound detective, went down in a tangle of Peruvians.

Within minutes, angry words were being exchanged. Miss Zevallos, an Inca folk dancer, shouted at Miss Sumac: "I work for you like a servant. I wash your... your many things. You are bad woman!"

Miss Sumac delivered a resounding backhand across Miss Zevallos' mouth.

A free-for-all melee followed. Reporters scurried to safety.

Miss Sumac's dark glasses fell off and were ground beneath another combatant's foot.

Otash restored peace—temporarily. Then he got into an argument with Vivanco.

Another private eye, Bill Lowe, grabbed Vivanco. Miss Rivero grabbed Otash by the hair. Miss Sumac grabbed Vivanco. The collie, Prince, ran barking into the thick of the fight. Vivanco fell into a wrought-iron planter. Jose Farfan, a harpist, jumped on Otash. Then, suddenly, everybody stopped for breath.

Miss Sumac opened her mink coat and displayed bruises on a shoulder. Otash began searching for a coat button, pulled off in the struggle. Farfan said something—in Indian this time.

Then a police car raced up.

Miss Sumac never did get the things she went after.

PURPLE-SPOTTED HOUSE CASE CRACKED BY BUGOLOGISTS

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The case of the purple-spotted houses has been cracked by the U.S. forest products laboratory.

Scientists blamed the blotches on three culprits—high winds, heavy rain and blossoming elms. They concluded that recent strong winds dashed the elm blossoms against rain-soaked siding on the homes.

Italians Find Sunken U.S. Plane

ANCONA, Italy (Reuters)—The wreckage of part of a four-engine American plane which crashed into the Adriatic Sea during the Second World War came to the surface Tuesday in the nets of an Italian fishing vessel. The wreckage, brought ashore here, included a fuel tank still containing 50 gallons of gasoline.

Korean Air Force Grows in Strength

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters)—Communist North Korea now possesses 808 modern military planes including jet atom bombers, Lt. Gen. Chang Duk Chang, chief of staff of the South Korean Air Force, said here Tuesday.

A bushel of wheat in Canada weighs 60 pounds, compared to 34 pounds for a bushel of oats.

More time to do more things — that's one of the advantages of having an automatic range. The new ones do everything but think for themselves — cook meals while you're away, flick on or off as needed. You can't beat an automatic range (gas or electric) for speed, cleanliness, convenience!

QOR Pay Corps NCO Hopes For Juan de Fuca Pay-Off

Another new swimmer will be bobbing along in Juan de Fuca in about three weeks. Aspirant, is Sgt. Bruce Holmes, 27-year-old pay corps NCO attached to the Queen's Own Rifles at Gordon Head.

Vital statistics: five feet six inches; 220 pounds; 44 inch chest.

The native Torontonian, in the army seven years, looks tough. This could well be the case as he's been swimming off the Willows frequently since last November.

Sgt. Holmes admits he's been led down the Juan de

Fuca path by perennial strait battler Ben Laughren, who himself plans a bout with the tide from Port Angeles May 15 when the gun pops at 10 a.m.

"I got the idea from Ben, he's a real friend, and has given me lots of help."

The sergeant admits he has never attempted serious distance swimming, but even during winter months has been in the water six to seven hours at a time. Last summer he was in up to nine hours.

"I can float in the water; even go to sleep in it. Why, my father taught me to do this before I could swim!"

Sgt. Holmes has two weeks' leave coming up soon, and intends to train strongly during this time, "and I'm cutting down on cigarettes, too."

He's honest.

"I don't think I'll make it the first time, but I intend to keep at it."

Aged eight, he was forbidden to swim from the cottage across the lake where the family spent summers. So the young Bruce ran around to the other side of the lake, and swam the two miles home.

He'll wait until Ben makes his mid-May bid before attempting the grueling pull himself.

Why swim the strait?

"It's just a challenge."

Sgt. Holmes said he hopes to compete in the Junior Chamber of Commerce mass swim in late August.

And what does wife Etta think of the project?

MONTE ROBERTS

It is about time to explain the difference between Standard Time and Daylight Saving Time.

(Actually, it would be too late, if this were Daylight Saving Time, but on the other hand, it might be too early, under Standard Time, so let us compromise and say it is About Time.)

The first thing to remember about Standard Time and Daylight Saving Time, there is really very little difference. You know, a minute here, a minute there, a few seconds somewhere else—you never notice them.

Put them away in your piggy bank, and soon you will have enough saved up to make a great, big, round, shiny hour—and then, bingo!—mother will let you have Daylight Saving Time.

I have put it this way so you won't be frightened by Daylight Saving Time.

Daylight Saving Time isn't a bogey-man who comes along and scares you in the dark.

On the contrary, Daylight Saving Time aims to eliminate darkness by having daylight not when nightfall usually falls, but an hour later.

This seems to please almost everyone with the exception of people who like to go to bed and are not accustomed to going to bed until night falls and if night falls too late are too tired to fall into bed at nightfall.

But this is counterbalanced by the advantage to people who like to fall out of bed at daybreak and consequently when day doesn't break until later have until later to fall out of bed.

Now, all that remains to be known about the difference between Standard Time and Daylight Saving Time is: What is the difference between Standard Time and Daylight Saving Time?

And then imagine yourself getting out of bed at 8 a.m. (not bad) but it is really 7 a.m. (groan) or possibly 9 a.m. (late for work again).

From this, it is easy to see the difference between Standard Time and Daylight Saving Time.

Under Standard Time, each day is divided into 24 one-hour periods.

Under Daylight Saving Time, 24 one-hour periods go to make up each day.

I trust this is the last we shall hear of (a) Standard and (b) Daylight Saving. Time, gentlemen, please.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Forty-one members of 89 Kinsmen Squadron Royal Canadian Air Cadets left by bus this morning at 8 for RCAF Station, Comox, where they are guests of the air force until Thursday.

"Don't ask me," Starck was quoted, "It was so dark I couldn't see."

He was ordered to pay $3.50 court costs and restricted to driving for business only for one month.

City Construction Co. Ltd., of Victoria, today submitted the lowest of five tenders for a $1,000,000 road-widening project in Burnaby.

BEWARE OF FALSE PROPHETS

'Fancy Religions' Disturb Sexton

By DINAH KERR

FORMER DEAN of Christ Church Cathedral here, Very Rev. Philip R. Beattie, Bishop of Kootenay, will visit Canadian servicemen and their families in France and Germany during tour with other clergymen, and will hold confirmation services for children of Canadians. Announcement of tour was made by Defence Minister Ralph Campney. Tour will start May 28, and continue to June 13. Rev. R. S. Snade of United Church, Vancouver, and Rev. John Lang, Baptist Church, also will be in the party.

Flocking of people to "fancy religions" is one of the most disturbing features in the religious life of today, Archbishop Harold E. Sexton told some 200 clergy and laymen of Vancouver Island attending a two-day diocesan synod here.

People have allowed themselves "to be exploited by representatives of fancy religions and plausible systems which are, in the main, ancient heresies in modern dress," he said.

SYNOD SENDS REGRETS TO GOVERNOR

A message expressing "sincere regret" at the loss of Government House will be sent to Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross from the Synod of the Diocese of British Columbia.

Meeting at Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall today, laymen and clergy of the synod approved a resolution moved by Archbishop Harold E. Sexton tendering sympathy to His Honor and Mrs. Ross in "their trying ordeal," and congratulating them on their "splendid example of courage and devotion to duty under the most difficult circumstances."

session of the synod, currently being held at Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall, the Archbishop also noted a "serious deterioration in international relationships."

"The vexed situation in the Middle East is a pressing challenge to the world's best statesmanship," he said.

"The world needs a policeman, and it would seem that a powerful international force under the control of the United Nations, capable of successful action in satellite countries like Hungary, as well as in Egypt and Palestine, is an immediate necessity."

"For the sake of the physical welfare of the human race," he called for an "early agreement amongst the nations, calling a halt to further nuclear tests."

Actual causes of the fires have not been disclosed. They are believed to be contained in the fire marshal's reports now in the hands of the attorney-general's department.

A department official said they will not be released until the return of Attorney-General Robert Bonner, expected Monday.

Father and son injured in an auto collision at Superior and Menzies Streets on Aug. 27, 1954, were awarded damages totalling $4,100 in a judgment handed down in Supreme Court today by Mr. Justice Macfarlane.

Charles Falta of 2409 Vancouver Street, who was in hospital 14 days with serious injuries, was awarded $3,500 damages.

His son, Joseph, who was 19 at the time, received $600 damages.

The driver of the other car, Lawrence Venuti of Nanaimo, denied negligence, but Mr. Justice Macfarlane found that he was "in the wrong" because he failed to stop at the intersection "or even see a flashing red light and his windows were so fogged up he could not see to his right."

Archbishop Harold E. Sexton officially relinquished his position today as Archdeacon of Columbia after 27 years' service.

"I hope to appoint a full-time Archdeacon of Columbia at an early date," he said. "For several years I have keenly felt the need of a capable, understanding and accessible archidiaconal colleague."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Tens of thousands of women all over the country think of "Why Grow Old's" nine-day reducing diet as a sign that spring is here. And many of them have written me to say that they keep the nine-day diet as a regular part of their household equipment and use it periodically as a part of their beauty and health routine.

When their clothes begin to feel tight and they weigh to find that they have gained from five to 10 pounds, they immediately get this diet out and stick to it until they are back at their ideal poundage. This is an excellent idea because it is so easy to lose that first five pounds and you can do it in such a short time. Also, if you leave them lying around on you the chances are they will multiply.

As you know, I am publishing my nine-day reducing diet at this time.

Here are tomorrow's menus.

THURSDAY'S MENUS

Breakfast — one poached egg on toast, black coffee.

Luncheon — one medium hamburger cake (cooked without butter and made of lean meat), celery sticks, one glass skimmed milk, two raw carrots.

Dinner — small lean steak, one-half cup cauliflower, one baked potato (no butter, medium sized potato has only about 90 calories), one orange, one glass skimmed milk before bedtime.

If you would like to have this rapid reducing diet to use now and to keep to refer to in the future, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Tips and Hints for You For Your Spring Shopping

By PENNY SAVER

Before I launch upon the newest things I saw in town, I want to tell you something else about the chop-o-matic food chopper I mentioned yesterday. I have found another wonderful use for it, and I thought I'd tell you about it. I discovered that making bread crumbs with this gadget is so easy that I managed to crumble all the bread I've been collecting, and have put it in jars, ready for use. I never dreamed it could be so easy. Instead of bread flying in all directions, and crumbs falling to the floor, it all stayed neatly inside the plastic sides.

Now, on to new things for today . . .

Encourage Your Child to Paint at Home; Mix Finger Paint and Let Him Dabble

"Finger painting is fun! This is the first day we did it at school. Couldn't I paint a picture at home?" Johnny Black asked eagerly. "Isn't it awfully messy?" his mother asked doubtfully. "Teacher told us to spread old newspapers on the table and the floor before we begin. She wore a big apron and said that all we needed to do to do it at home was smooth, shiny paper and a finger paint mixture," Johnny answered. "You could wear one of my aprons. I suppose we could get a page from an old wall paper sample book, or there may be some pantry shelf paper which would do. But aren't the paints expensive?" Mrs. Black objected. "No! I've got the recipe right here! You can make it like a pudding on top of the stove." Johnny replied, producing a crumpled sheet of paper. On it appeared the following directions: Cook over direct heat, four cups of water and one cup of corn starch, stirring constantly until thickened. Place in double boiler. Cook 10 minutes longer. Continue to stir to avoid lumps. Divide the thickened mass into four parts, cool and mix in vegetable coloring. Mrs. Black was relieved that her young pupil having a marvelous time dabbling brown iodine on the wall with his fingers. From this beginning Miss Shaw has developed finger painting as a simple art form for children and in recent years for wounded veterans and patients suffering from nervous tensions.

Children draw or paint for sheer enjoyment and they should not be hampered by adult suggestions. Neither should their pictures ever be ridiculed. A child is sensitive and rather than run the risk of being laughed at a second time he will refrain from painting. A little child's small muscles are not sufficiently co-ordinated to work on tiny pictures. He should be given large sheets of paper, wrapping paper or newsprint may be used, at least 18 by 24 inches. It is a good plan to hang the child's drawing up in his own room. He has put time and effort into its creation and so it is of value to him.

The origin of finger painting is interesting. A small school boy in the English speaking colony in Rome, 35 years ago, cut his hand. His teacher was Miss Ruth Faison Shaw, an American girl, who had gone overseas during the First World War to serve as a "canteen" worker under the YMCA. At its conclusion she had opened a private school in Rome. Miss Shaw told the boy to go and put iodine on his cut.

A little while later she found her young pupil having a marvelous time dabbling brown iodine on the wall with his fingers. From this beginning Miss Shaw has developed finger painting as a simple art form for children and in recent years for wounded veterans and patients suffering from nervous tensions.

EXPORT OUTLOOK DIM

Two-Price Flour System Unable To Match U.S.

By HAROLD MORRISON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has embarked on a partial two-price system for flour exports but apparently she still is unable to match the United States in the fight for world markets.

The situation is extremely bad, a federal grain authority said. Despite the adjustment in Canadian flour prices, Canada is having great difficulty increasing flour exports.

The major problem is that the U.S. offers better quality flour at lower prices. The price cuts resulted from high American government subsidies.

On March 1 the Canadian wheat board attempted to improve Canada's competitive position by offering rebates on flour exports. The rebates, subsidized by farmers and not the government, had the effect of reducing export prices below those for flour consumed in Canada.

REBATES ADJUSTED

Initially, the rebates to exporters ranged from 4½ cents a bushel on flour shipped out of Atlantic ports to eight cents on shipments from Pacific points. Since then the rebate has been reduced slightly for the Pacific area and increased slightly for the East.

The rebates apply on shipments to certain markets, excluding the U.S., Britain and Continental Europe.

While American domestic wheat prices range sharply higher than those in Canada, American government subsidies for exports are relatively large. In the case of flour, the U.S. subsidy runs to about 57 cents a bushel on a domestic price of about $2.40, cutting it to $1.83 for exports.

In Canada, the small rebate reduces the Canadian export price for flour to about $1.60, basis No. 1 northern.

Federal officials said no firm figures were yet available on the trend of Canadian flour exports since the rebates were announced.
But they said the situation was not encouraging.

GAP NARROWED

In the seven months of the current crop year which started Aug.
1 last, Canada exported 21,800,000 bushels of wheat in the form of flour, down from 22,100,000 in the previous year.

However, wheat exports increased in that period to 138,100, 000 bushels from 114,600,000.

Stahl Linked With Defence Stock Deals

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York State attorney-general said Tuesday that manipulations carried on through two Swiss banks on behalf of firms and individuals in Iron Curtain countries seek control of securities in western companies producing defence material.

Attorney-General Louis J.
Lefkowitz said the principal
tions was Charles Robert Stahl, former Edmonton broker now living in Rio de Janeiro.

Stahl was involved in an action in February in which the attorney-general charged him with participating with Canadian associates in an international fraud which cost American investors an estimated $6,000,000. Stahl, formerly connected with the Edmonton brokerage firm of Stahl-Miles, lived in Pelham, N.Y., before going to South America.

Last March Stahl signed a consent decree in Rio de Janeiro, which barred him permanently from securities dealings in New York.

Lefkowitz obtained an order
Tuesday from the Supreme Court calling upon officers of the two Swiss banking corporations to explain their dealings and produce books and records for examination in court June 14.

The corporations are S. A.
Deplacements Mobiliers, set up in 1952, and Banque Ferrier-Lullin, both in Geneva, Switzerland.

Lefkowitz, in an affidavit, said the stock operations might have resulted in gaining control of "fantastic amounts of securities" in American, British, Dutch and Canadian corporations producing uranium, oil, nickel, lithium, copper and natural gas.

Lefkowitz said his information was furnished by a "major figure" in Deplace-ments Mobiliers, formed as a vehicle to invest capital of European in these corporations.

The delegation pointed out to Mr. Jones that about 10 miles between Victoria and Duncan are under some form of reconstruction, and certain parts appear to be nearly ready for paying.

They asked for the date of completion of the work, which is seriously slowing down Island traffic.

Mr. Jones said the contractors are "definitely doing a good job," and were doing it as quickly as possible.

The deputy said he was "personally satisfied" with the work, following an inspection tour over the highway Tuesday afternoon.

The investigation was ordered by Highways Minister P. A.
Gagliardi following complaints from a number of quarters on the condition of the road.

Mr. Jones couldn't say whether he will recommend any changes in the operation until he has discussed the situation with the minister.

GOOD SHAPE

Mr. Gagliardi said his deputy was authorized to "remedy any situation he feels is not in keeping with good construction practices."

Considering the conditions they are working under, the contractors are keeping the highway in good shape, Mr.
Jones said.

Meanwhile, Sam Lane, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce-trade group, who advocated round-the-clock shifts on the Malahat to complete the work by summer, replied to criticism of his group by Mr.
Gagliardi.

The highways minister said publicity given to bad conditions on the highway was doing more harm to the tourist trade than the construction work it self.

"We were just commenting on something that is an actual fact," Mr. Lane said. "It is not the chamber but returning U.S. tourists who take back bad and often exaggerated reports of Canadian highways."

A large number of complaints have been received about the Malahat, he said.

EMILY SARTAIN EXHIBITION

Wildflower Artist to Show
Work in Spring Festival

One of the world's most famous painters of flowers said Victorians should show off their native wild flowers to U.S. visitors during the city's two-week Springtime Festival starting next Sunday.

Emily Sartain, who has won many awards for her paintings of B.C. wild flowers, said U.S. visitors would be equally as impressed with natural displays of colorful native blooms as with anything they will see in the city.

"South Vancouver Island has one of the most varied flora in Canada," said Miss Sartain, who spends most of her time hiking and climbing in search of rock and alpine plants to paint, "but we do nothing to show off our native flowers."

The Springtime Festival is expected to draw over 5,000 visitors to the city between April 28 and May 11. It will feature conducted tours of private gardens, a square dance jamboree, a folk dance jamboree, a folk dance festival and music festival.

Miss Sartain, who recently returned from a trip to England, will do her bit for the festival by displaying 200 of her paintings of native wildflowers at the Victoria Art Gallery. The exhibition will open next Tuesday.
It includes works which won her awards from the Royal Horticultural Society.

The artist, who has done much to attract attention in England and the United States on the native flora of B.C., said Thetis Lake Park was the "natural site" for showing visitors native trees, shrubs and flowers.

"At this time of the year," she said, "you can see sheets of pink sea bluish and monkey flowers on rocky outcrops. In the woods, the false lady slipper and the Easter lily are in full bloom."

"Then there are blue camass and a host of flowering shrubs," she added. "Few cities can boast of having a natural garden at their doorstep, as we have."

Miss Sartain noted that some U.S. states were publishing expensive colored booklets on their native flora.

"They realize that a rich natural flora is an asset and is a big attraction for visitors," she said.

Miss Sartain said visitors she had come in contact with have been amazed at the varied flora of South Vancouver Island.

"In England, even the Queen Mother is interested in our native flowers," she said. "It is one of our biggest assets and we should set aside a show place for them."

$15,000 Price Tag To Stay on 'Gore'

Saanich finance committee will recommend council stand by its $15,000 asking price for sale of Memorial Gore at Helbourne and Cedar Hill Cross road.

Imperial Oil Ltd. has made a $4,000 offer and sent $400 in consideration of an option it proposes to the municipality to settle the deal, and permit construction of a service station at the intersection.

The motion to stand pat was proposed by Reeve Arthur Ash and councillors Eugene Dies, Becker and S. W. Brock.

Coun. Diespecker said he was opposed to any sale of the property, no matter what the price.

"We're using a very short-sighted attitude on this thing," said the reeve.

T'S REVENUE

"I see no earthly reason why we shouldn't go ahead and either accept or reject the offer... Let's use a little common sense. We should be looking at it purely from the point of view of revenue for this municipality."

He pointed out the commercial benefits and taxation which would accrue to Saanich by such development.

Coun. Ainslie Worthington, who moved to stay put with the $15,000 tag, argued the municipality should not let the property go because importance of the area is increasing and widening of Cedar Hill Cross Road would be necessary soon.

SUPERMART PLANNED

Coun. Joseph Casey thought the $4,000 offer "ridiculous" in view of the fact a super market planned to spend $12,000 on property across the street from the Gore.

The oil company wants the tip of triangular-shaped Peace Memorial Park rezoned for commercial purposes to allow the firm necessary frontage for its proposed station on Cedar Hill Cross Road.

The remainder of the park would then be dedicated for park purposes and improved, according to plans agreed upon by council last year.

Only Two 'Blown Out' of Airliners

By ROBERT J. SEELING
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The odds against being sucked out of an airliner window or door are 150 million to one. They will be even greater in the coming jet transports.

Civil aeronautics board files show only two passengers have been "blown out" of U.S. airliner cabins since pressurized planes went into general service in 1946. In that period the regularly scheduled U.S. airlines have carried nearly 300 million persons.

Cabin pressurization is required for planes flying above 15,000 feet. At 20,000 feet the pressure inside an airliner is 128½ pounds per square inch greater than outside the plane—and a fractured window or suddenly opened door can whisk a 200-pound man through the opening in a split second.

Drawn Right Out of Window

When the window on the Air France plane broke over Iran last weekend, the ill-fated passenger was suddenly subjected to 850 pounds of pressure on his head—enough to suck him toward the window. Once his head was through, his entire body was jolted by approximately 1,700 pounds of pressure and was drawn out the window.

Designers of the new jet planes have taken special steps to prevent this from happening. These include:

1. Windows so small a human body cannot go through.
2. Triple-strength windows with three glass panes, each so strong that fracturing of the other two will not affect the remaining one. (Current airliners have double-pane windows; while they are designed so breaking of one will not affect the other, there have been rare instances when both cracked open.)

3. The doors on jetliners will be of the "plug type"—designed so pressurization merely locks them tighter instead of exerting a pushing force as in present planes.

Even on present airliners the danger of a double-pane window "fracturing" is extremely rare. A C.A.B. official said government requires regular inspection of plane windows for scratches that might weaken the glass. A scratch can lead to a crack and a crack will mean an eventual break.

10 Inches Away and You're Safe

"Windows can be scratched when the plane is cleaned and also by passengers themselves," he said. "We have had cases where passengers scratched their initials into windows and I myself once stopped a youngster who was banging on a window with an iron toy. His mother got mad and told me the boy wasn't bothering anybody."

How close you sit to a window could determine whether you stand a chance of getting sucked out of one. The government ran depressurization tests several years ago which showed that a passenger sitting more than 10 inches from a window was in no danger of being blown out even if it fractured. Less than 10 inches, however, created a real danger.

C.A.B. records show these fatal instances of unexpected depressurization, most of them caused by door failures:

1947—An astrodome in a TWA Constellation blew out while the navigator was making star sights, sucking him to his death over the Atlantic.

1950—A woman passenger in a Pan-American strato-cruiser was pulled through a cabin door that suddenly opened.

1952—Another passenger went through a PAA strato-cruiser door that unexpectedly opened.

There have been several close calls resulting from door and window failures in pressurized planes. In 1952, a passenger on an American Airlines DC-6 nearly went through an emergency exit door that blew open. He was saved by his fastened seat belt and the prompt action of other passengers who pulled him back to safety.

Last year a passenger under the influence of intoxicants staggered against the door of a Piedmont DC-3, grabbed the handle and opened the door, falling to his death. The C.A.B. promptly ordered all airlines using this equipment to change the design of their door locks so they could not be opened accidentally.

Depressurization in itself can cause discomfort but not death to occupants of high-flying planes. A modern airliner cabin, even with a broken window or door, takes about 15 seconds to depressurize completely. And in that time the crew can plunge to lower altitudes. To seriously affect breathing total depressurization would have to take place in one-third of a second.

ESQUIMAULT REPLICA

Ex-Navy Man To Carve Coat-of-Arms

Replica of the Esquimalt coat-of-arms to be placed in council chamber will be carved by Cmdr. H. W. S. Soulsby, retired naval officer.

At a meeting Tuesday night, council also authorized Cmdr. Soulsby to carve a royal crown and laurel leaves above a photograph of Queen Elizabeth. Total expenditure of the two projects will not exceed $35.

Since retirement at the end of the Second World War, the commander has carved a similar coat-of-arms for the city of Duncan and the royal insignia above portraits of four pairs of sovereigns which were destroyed in the recent Government House fire.

FLORA FOR FESTIVAL

Famed painter of flowers, Emily Sartain of Victoria, says Victoria should show off its wild flowers to U.S. visitors during the city's two-week Spring-time Festival which starts next Sunday. Miss Sartain, pictured here painting Easter lilies at Thetis Lake Park, says

southern Vancouver Island has one of the most varied flora in Canada. Thetis Lake Park is a natural show site for visitors, she said. Miss Sartain will show her paintings at Art Gallery Tuesday. (See story, page 29.)

FROST? SNOW? HERE? NOT CRICKET, OLD BOY

Winter returned to Greater Victoria Tuesday night with ground frost in sheltered areas and snow at higher altitudes.

Snow was reported on the Malahat overnight, and a light dusting of white was on the Sooke hills early today.

The Arctic weather followed a minor deluge Tuesday afternoon and evening, when 0.65 inch rain fell in four or five hours.

Weathermen William Mackie predicted clear weather for the remainder of today, but said clouds will start gathering again tonight, making Thursday cloudy with sunny periods. Temperature will drop to 38 degrees tonight, and climb to a maximum of 57 degrees Thursday. Winds will be westerly at 15 miles.

Jordan Premier Defies Rioters

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Stone-throwing rioters and a general strike failed today to shake Premier Hussein Khalidi out of office. Mobs of youths, apparently organized by pro-Egyptian leftists, swarmed through downtown streets for several hours demanding that the government resign and that Jordan federate with Syria and Egypt.

Then Amman quieted. The demonstrators dispersed peacefully after suffering a few minor injuries. Large numbers of troops held key positions throughout the capital but did not participate in putting down the riots.

On the orders of Khalidi to avoid serious bloodshed, police armed with clubs and equipped with straw shields trapped large sections of the rioters and prevented them from joining forces. The strategy worked.

After the rioting stopped, Khalidi went to the royal palace. The 70-year-old premier, named eight days ago by young King

Hussein to head a cabinet mostly of independents, was reported to have told an all-party committee demanding his resignation that he would not quit. He said the party leaders supported him when he formed the cabinet, and that he had done nothing since then to warrant their withdrawing their support. Meetings of cabinet ministers continued, however, in an effort to solve the second political crisis in two weeks. The first crisis arose when King Hussein dismissed the Communist-infiltrated government of Suleiman Nabulsi.

RCAF Pilot Deviated From Flight Plan

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Flying Officer J. S. Sargent, 26, of Westwood, Ont., pleaded guilty to one of four charges filed against him today at his general court martial here.

Sargent was charged after he crash-landed an RCAF Mitchell bomber in a residential area of suburban St. James Feb. 17, damaging four houses. No one was hurt.

Prosecuting attorney Lt. R. F. Barnes (RCN) called five witnesses to testify at the opening session of the trial.

Among them was F/O D. R. Gibson, who was co-pilot of the plane. Sargent, showing little emotion as he faced the five-man court, pleaded guilty to a charge of deviating from his flight authorization plan on the flight from Vancouver to Winnipeg. Sargent took the plane to Patricia Bay, B.C., instead of flying direct to Winnipeg as he was ordered. He said he picked up Gibson and another crew member at Patricia Bay. Sargent pleaded not guilty to three other charges of failing to make a refueling stop en route; failing to "take appropriate emergency landing action" on approach to Winnipeg's Stevenson Field airport; and "making a false entry in a document signed by him that was required for official purposes."

Tug Tips Over

Four Missing in Montreal Mishap

MONTREAL (BUP)—A tugboat capsized and sank in the bustling Montreal harbor while helping a freighter to its dock today and four crew members were missing and believed drowned.

Four others swam from the sinking tug and were picked up by a harbor boat.

Police said the tow rope linking the tugboat John Pratt with the 12,000-ton Swedish freighter Nyland suddenly snapped and the smaller vessel tipped over. It sank within minutes.

Listed as missing were Capt. Zotiche Bibeau of Montreal, the John Pratt's skipper; Jeanne Lamy, the tug's woman cook; John Marc Morin, a deckhand, and Laurent Lafreniere, a fireman.

The accident temporarily halted movement of some ships in the recently opened St. Lawrence River harbor area, including one ocean liner.

The mishap was similar to one in Halifax recently when the aircraft carrier Magnificent pulled over a tugboat with the loss of two lives.

Queen's Visit Still in Doubt

LONDON (AP)—A columnist for the London Daily Express says President Eisenhower may have had second thoughts about inviting Queen Elizabeth to visit Washington this fall.

"If she does not go to the United States this autumn," writes William Hickey, "it will be widely believed that she has been snubbed."

British newspapers have been assuming that such a trip by the Queen and Prince Philip is definitely in the works although there has been no official confirmation from Buckingham Palace or the White House. Such a trip presumably would include a visit to Canada as well.

"Something seems to have gone wrong," Hickey declares. "Officials both in London and Washington are evasive, non-committal and slightly embarrassed."

At last month's Bermuda conference between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan questions about the visit were answered only by statements that any announcement would have to follow consultations with the Queen in London.

UN to Meet Thursday On Egypt's Suez Plan

SHE'LL USE HER SHWEINBURKEL

Saanich Sasquatch Sought By Port Angeles Huntress

The hunt going on for the legendary Sasquatch on the B.C. mainland will have its counterpart on Vancouver Island next week.

Arnold Webb, secretary-manager of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said today Mrs. E. B. Tinkham of Port Angeles has written offering to bring to the city a "Shweinburkel," a unique shotgun, for hunting the hairy giant.

"We have accepted the offer," he said. "Representatives of the chamber and members of the Explorer Club will be on hand to meet Mrs. Tinkham on Sunday's afternoon boat from Port Angeles."

It was explained that a Shweinburkel is a shotgun with extraordinary powers, capable of shooting around corners. It is equipped with a "waffle" valve, as well as an altimeter.

The gun was originally used to shoot "goons" in the Gramplains of Scotland.

(Note: The Scottish goons are not to be confused with the underground type of Chicago.)

In her letter, Mrs. Tinkham, who is a frequent visitor to Victoria, noted there was a far bigger chance of shooting a Sasquatch around Victoria than on the B.C. mainland.

"The hairy giants," she points out, originated in Saanich. The ones on the mainland are the offsprings of the original clan. "I do feel that Vancouver Island is more of an ideal place for hunting Sasquatch," she wrote. "There is less fog and the terrain is ideal for a safari."

The Shweinburkel, she added, was the only ideal weapon to hunt the giant.

Questioned as to the existence of Sasquatch on Vancouver Island, anthropologists said they had never looked into the matter, but would make an immediate check with the Salish band to see if the hairy giants existed on the island.

BENNETT, PM's SON ON SAME AIRLINER

Is Ignorance Bliss—for 11 Hours Or Is Silence Politically Golden?

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Sun says Premier Bennett and Jean-Paul St.

Laurent, lawyer-politician son of the Prime Minister, cold-shouldered each other for 11 hours Tuesday on a flight from Montreal to Vancouver.

The premier was returning from a Social Credit convention in Toronto and political talks in Quebec. Mr. St. Laurent, Liberal MP for Temiscouata, was coming to B.C. for a campaign visit.

The Sun says: "Both knew the other was on the flight. But both apparently pretended they didn't as they sat without once exchanging greetings while the plane dived for 11 hours across 3,000 miles of Canada."

"Premier Bennett, informed by reporters of Mr. St. Laurent's presence, made no move to introduce himself. Neither did Mr. St. Laurent, although he said later he usually makes a point of introducing himself on such occasions."

"He did not explain why he made the exception Tuesday."

Britain Cool to Bulganin's Latest Disarmament Offer

LONDON (AP)—A long, amicably phrased letter from Russia's Premier Bulganin to Prime Minister Macmillan on disarmament, the Middle East and European peace has aroused no perceptible enthusiasm in Britain.

The foreign office was said today to consider the letter friendly in tone but not necessarily significant. Bulganin has communicated his views in long personal letters to the United States, British and French chiefs of government at intervals since the Geneva "Summit" conference in 1955.

British press reaction is generally cool to the Soviet premier's latest.

Ambassador Jacob Malik delivered the 8,000-word communication to Macmillan last weekend. Moscow radio broadcast the text today.

City Teacher Named B.C. Vice-President

VANCOUVER — Harold Parrott, vice-principal of Belmont High School, Sooke, today was elected first vice-president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

Miss Mollie Cottingham of John Oliver High School, Vancouver, was named president, succeeding Ian D. Boyd of Vancouver.

Phone Service Cut

B.C. Telephone officials said today a faulty cable at Patricia Bay is obstructing service between Vancouver and Vancouver Island. Officials said only 12 out of 40 circuits are operating.

New Conditions Fixed for Canal

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

UNITED NATIONS—The United States asked today that the United Nations Security Council meet Thursday afternoon, "or as soon thereafter as may be convenient," to take up the Suez Canal question again.

U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge filed the request with the council president, Sir Pierson Dixon of Britain, in a letter made public by the U.S. delegation.

He asked that the council meet "for the purpose of resuming discussion" on the canal question.

Meanwhile Egypt declared she will run the Suez Canal but agreed to take disputes over operations and tolls to arbitration.

Main Points of Egypt's Plan

Main points of Egypt's plan are:

1. An autonomous Egyptian canal authority will operate and manage the canal.

2. The tolls are payable in advance.

3. Toll increases shall be limited to one per cent yearly. Any bigger increase shall be the result of negotiation and arbitration if there is no agreement.

4. The Suez Canal Authority will take 25 per cent of all gross receipts into a Suez Canal Capital and Development Fund.

5. The government of Egypt will receive five per cent of the gross receipts of royalties.

Falls Short of U.S. Wishes

U.S. officials indicated Egypt's plan falls short of American recommendations on several key points. These mainly involve the six principles recommended for Suez operations by the security council Oct. 13.

The principles call for non-discriminatory "free and open transit of the canal," respect for Egypt's sovereignty, agreement on tolls, development of the canal, arbitration in case of dispute and non-political operation of the canal.

Egypt is reported to feel it has incorporated these recommendations in its plan. But the United States would like to see this spelled out more clearly.

Egypt's agreement to file the plans with the UN goes part of the way in meeting American suggestions that the principles be given an international status.

The canal memorandum was published shortly after the U.S. President Jackson, first American ship to enter the Suez Canal since it was reopened, steamed within the limits of and in accordance with the provisions of the Constantinople Convention of 1888.

The Egyptian government published at Cairo its final canal terms in a memorandum which affirmed Egypt will operate the canal and collect all tolls and which Egypt promised to register in the United Nations.

In London, informed sources said Britain will fully back the reference by the U.S. of the canal question to the UN Security Council.

(That would permit the barring of Israel ships which Egypt says it prohibits under the terms of the convention.)

7. Egypt promises to develop the canal for modern navigation according to the plans of the old company, with improvements.

In addition to promising to co-operate with the users, Egypt said it "will study further appropriate arrangements that could be made for fact-finding consultation and arbitration" on complaints relating to the canal code.

That left the door open for further safeguards desired by western users.

Driver Kills Self

SHININGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Darnell Rutter, 29, took his own life less than 30 minutes after his automobile struck a 12-year-old boy here Tuesday. Police said Rutter did not wait for a physician's report on the condition of James Zecco, the youth struck by his automobile—who suffered only minor injuries. They added that Rutter rushed from the doctor's office where the boy was taken, drove to his own residence and shot himself.

Meanwhile, U.S. Ambassador Raymond Hare met again with Egypt's foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi for more talks on the subject.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

This new day, O God, proves that darkness cannot hold us in its power forever. Sunrise has never failed us yet. So the darkness of our sorrow can be overcome by the light of Thy faith. The mid-night of our sins can be overcome by the light of Thy forgiveness. The blackness of our fears can be overcome by the light of Thy confidence. Thy Son has never failed us yet. Amen.

'VOTE FOR CANADA'—LIBERAL THEME

ON THE HUSTINGS

New CCF Policy Could Spark Party Clash

Provincial CCFers open a three-day annual meeting in Vancouver Friday, with the hint of controversy over the party's new manifesto adopted in Winnipeg last August.

Criticism of the Winnipeg declaration, a toned-down revision of the depression-adopted Regina Manifesto, is contained in resolutions coming before the expected 200 delegates.

In view of the forthcoming election, however, a full-blown debate is not expected on the convention floor.

The more radical members of the CCF believe the new manifesto is too soft.

It denounces monopolies and big business but adds that the party recognizes that in many fields there will be need for private enterprise.

This contrasts sharply with the Regina Manifesto, which for 23 years took the stand that "no CCF government will rest content until it has eradicated capitalism."

One resolution before the B.C. meeting also criticizes the fact that the Winnipeg Declaration was not circulated to all CCF clubs for discussion before being adopted.

Main theme of the meeting will undoubtedly be the June 10 election campaign. The CCF's six B.C. federal members will take part.

Possibility of a "little provincial election" on the eve of the federal election loomed today. Speculation followed the resignation of Thomas Irwin as speaker of the legislature to contest the federal riding of Burnaby-Richmond for Social Credit.

It was noted that Mr. Irwin submitted his resignation one month in advance of the federal nomination deadline, allowing time for Premier Bennett to call provincial by-elections in three unrepresented ridings.

A good showing in these by-elections would boost the party's position in the federal contest.

Only 35 days' notice is required to order a provincial by-election.

The other vacancies were caused by the deaths of Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd (Cariboo) and CCF member Ernest Winch (Burnaby).

Provincial officials have not yet been officially notified of the death of Mr. Chetwynd and Mr. Irwin's resignation from the legislature.

A by-election must be held within six months of official notification.

Another theory is that Premier Bennett will wait until after the federal election before calling the "little election" to ensure getting strong candidates.

If Mr. Irwin should lose in his first bid in federal politics, he may wish to run again provincially, and could be in line for a cabinet post.

Mr. Irwin was first elected from Delta in 1952 and was appointed speaker at the start of the 1953 session of the legislature.

Premier Due Back Here Today

Premier W. A. C. Bennett was expected back in Victoria today after his barnstorming tour of Eastern Canada.

At his last press conference in Montreal, the premier charged that the federal Liberal government has been giving out "terrible and scandalous patronage" to its friends.

At the same time, Mr. Bennett said Social Credit's campaign funds in B.C. are accepted with "no strings attached."

He had no knowledge of where his party's campaign funds came from, the premier said.

Asked to give a specific example of federal patronage, Mr. Bennett replied: "Horses on the payroll."

It was disclosed at the press conference that Social Credit will distribute across the country 1,000,000 copies of the party platform printed in a slick-paper booklet.

Debate continued, meanwhile on the size of the audience and over-all success of the Social Credit rally at Toronto's Massey Hall.

Premier Bennett accused the press of "deliberately trying to play down" the meeting.

He "definitely" was not disappointed, the premier said.

Boy Genius Quits TV Quiz With $192,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Television's all-time high quiz show winner, 10-year-old Robert Strom, quit Tuesday night while he was $192,000 ahead.

Robert, who has answered tough questions in different scientific fields for many weeks on CBS' The $64,000 Question, broke the record for quiz show winnings last week.

Tuesday night when he appeared again on the show, his father announced that they had decided the boy should stop.

It wasn't much of a strain on Robert, his father said, but a terrific strain on his mother and father.

Robert, who will get his winnings in three annual instalments — to ease his income tax burden — was asked by master of ceremonies Hal March how he felt about quitting the show. He grinned and replied: "Well — what can you do with parents?"

B.C. Teachers Rule Sex Education Subject for Mature Instructors

VANCOUVER (CP) — Delegates to the British Columbia Teachers' Convention debated sex education Tuesday and decided only senior teachers should attempt it.

H. B. Smith, assistant superintendent of Vancouver schools, said "properly mature experienced teachers should not be afraid of discussing subjects like sex, narcotics, or anything else" in appropriate classes.

Mr. Smith was discussing a ment course taught in B.C. schools.

Teachers said that in many schools, the course is left to the new teacher.

"To often it is given to someone who can't teach anything else," said C. I. Taylor, inspector of schools for Courtenay district.

Said Mrs. M. C. Pennington, teacher and girls' councillor from Cranbrook High School, "many teachers are afraid to open a discussion with their group. They shudder at the thought of some of the questions they may be asked."

Mr. Smith said the course should be taught only by teachers with five years experience or more.

Negro to Hang For Burglary

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A 26-year-old Negro today was convicted of first-degree burglary by a circuit court jury, which fixed the penalty at death in the electric chair.

Charles Clarence Hamilton was convicted of entering the home of a white family in the early morning hours last October. Testimony was that when police arrested him he was in the house and had removed his pants and shoes.

Deputy Solicitor Cecil Deacon challenged the jurors to "send out the word from this courthouse this very day that anyone, anyone at all who enters a house in the night-time with intent to ravish, will face death."

The jury deliberated less than an hour.

Papers Near Limit of Economic Endurance, U.S. Expert Asserts

NEW YORK (CP) — Newspapers in the United States and Canada are giving "magnificent public service," but rising production costs are becoming a threat to that service, says the president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

William Dwight, ANPA president and publisher of the Holyoke (Mass.) Transcript-Telegram, said in an address prepared for today's session of the association "it is apparent to all that we cannot preserve the strong financial independence that a free press must have unless we find new and more economical methods of publishing."

"This last newspaper price increase cost North American newspapers many millions of dollars. It doesn't require a CPA (certified public chartered accountant) to conclude that some newspapers are being pushed to the limit of their economic endurance."

"There can come the time when the burden of this cost will become so excessive that newspapers will be compelled to reduce their use of newsprint."

"That would be unfortunate. It would have a deterrent effect on our economy, harmful to everyone. It would in turn have an adverse impact on newsprint manufacturers."

Dwight said some labor organizations "have placed hobbies on the full application of new and improved mechanical ways of producing newspapers."

"They have blocked the maximum use of the instruments that alone can make the production of newspapers more efficient."

RIFLEMAN TO TAKE SHOT AT STRAIT

QOR Pay Corps NCO Hopes For Juan de Fuca Pay-Off

Another new swimmer will be bobbing along in Juan de Fuca in about three weeks. Aspirant is Sgt. Bruce Holmes, 27-year-old pay corps NCO attached to the Queen's Own Rifles at Gordon Head.

Vital statistics: five feet six inches; 220 pounds; 44 inch chest.

The native Torontonian, in the army seven years, looks tough. This could well be the case as he's been swimming off the Willows frequently since last November.

Sgt. Holmes admits he's been led down the Juan de

Fuca path by perennial strait battler Ben Laughren, who himself plans a bout with the tide from Port Angeles May 15 when the gun pops at 10 a.m.

"I got the idea from Bert, he's a real friend and has given me lots of help."

The sergeant admits he has never attempted serious distance swimming, but even during winter months has been in the water six to seven hours at a time. Last summer he was in up to nine hours.

"I can float in the water; even go to sleep in it. Why my father taught me to do this before I could swim!"

Sgt. Holmes has two weeks' leave coming up soon, and intends to train strongly during this time, "and I'm cutting down on cigarettes, too."

He's honest.

"I don't think I'll make it the first time, but I intend to keep at it."

Aged eight, he was forbidden to swim from the cottage across the lake where the family spent summers. So the young Bruce ran around to the other side of the lake, and swam the two miles home.

He'll wait until Ben makes his mid-May bid before attempting the gruelling pull himself.

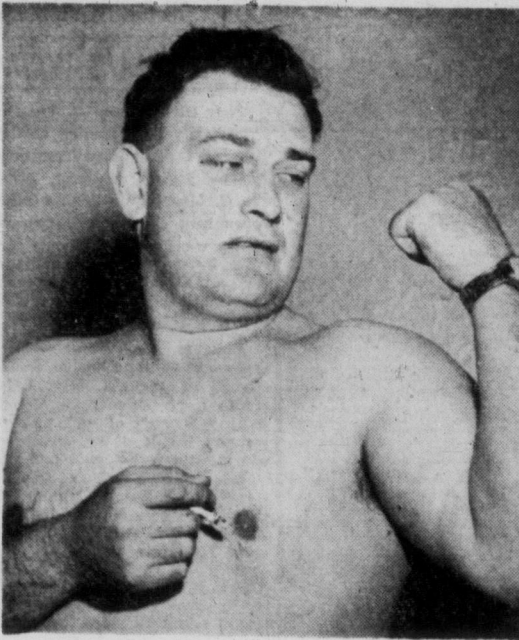

Why swim the strait?

"It's just a challenge."

Sgt. Holmes said he hopes to compete in the Junior Chamber of Commerce mass swim in late August.

And what does wife Etta think of the project?

MONTE ROBERTS

It is about time to explain the difference between Standard Time and Daylight Saving Time.

(Actually, it would be too late, if this were Daylight Saving Time, but on the other hand, it might be too early, under Standard Time, so let us compromise and say it is About Time.)

The first thing to remember about Standard Time and Daylight Saving Time, there is really very little difference. You know, a minute here, a minute there, a few seconds somewhere else—you never notice them.

Put them away in your piggy bank, and soon you will have enough saved up to make a great, big, round, shiny hour—and then, bingo!—mother will let you have Daylight Saving Time.

I have put it this way so you won't be frightened by Daylight Saving Time.

Daylight Saving Time isn't a bogey-man who comes along and scares you in the dark.

On the contrary, Daylight Saving Time aims to eliminate darkness by having nightfall not when nightfall usually falls, but an hour later.

This seems to please almost everyone with the exception of people who like to go to bed and are not accustomed to going to bed until night falls and if night falls too late are too tired to fall into bed at nightfall.

But this is counterbalanced by the advantage to people who like to fall out of bed at daybreak and consequently when day doesn't break until later have until later to fall out of bed.

Now, all that remains to be known about the difference between Standard Time and Daylight Saving Time is: What is the difference between Standard Time and Daylight Saving Time?

And then imagine yourself getting out of bed at 8 a.m. (not bad) but it is really 7 a.m. (groan) or possibly 9 a.m. (late for work again.)

From this, it is easy to see the difference between Standard Time and Daylight Saving Time.

Under Standard Time, each day is divided into 24 one-hour periods.

Under Daylight Saving Time, 24 one-hour periods go to make up each day.

I trust this is the last we shall hear of (a) Standard and (b) Daylight Saving. Time, gentlemen, please.

BEWARE OF FALSE PROPHETS

'Fancy Religions' Disturb Sexton

By DINAH KERR

Flocking of people to "fancy religions" is one of the most disturbing features in the religious life of today, Archbishop Harold E. Sexton told some 200 clergy and laymen of Vancouver Island attending a two-day diocesan synod here.

People have allowed themselves "to be exploited by representatives of fancy religions and plausible systems which are, in the main, ancient heresies in modern dress," he said.

His Grace warned the clergy to "exercise the greatest vigilance" in parishes so that they may be ready to "banish and drive away all erroneous and strange doctrines contrary to God's word," and to "remember our Lord's injunction 'Beware of False Prophets'."

General lack of organization for men of the church and the "unsatisfactory" condition of the Anglican Young People's Association are "two serious weaknesses" in diocesan life, he said.

GROWN WEAK

In many parishes members of the AYPAs have been left with "little or no supervision from the priest or any other responsible churchman," with the result that the group has grown weak or ceased to exist.

Churchmen should be organized into something comparable to the Woman's Auxiliary, the Archbishop said.

"We would do well to consider the claims of the Brotherhood of Anglican Churchmen, which I understand has now been established in 20 dioceses of the Dominion."

In his address to the 35th

SYNOD SENDS REGRETS TO GOVERNOR

A message expressing "sincere regret" at the loss of Government House will be sent to Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross from the Synod of the Diocese of British Columbia.

Meeting at Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall today, laymen and clergy of the synod approved a resolution moved by Archbishop Harold E. Sexton tendering sympathy to His Honor and Mrs. Ross in "their trying ordeal," and congratulating them on their "splendid example of courage and devotion to duty under the most difficult circumstances."

Session of the synod, currently being held at Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall, the Archbishop also noted a "serious deterioration in international relationships."

"The vexed situation in the Middle East is a pressing challenge to the world's best statesmanship," he said.

"The world needs a policeman, and it would seem that a powerful international force under the control of the United Nations, capable of successful action in satellite countries like Hungary, as well as in Egypt and Palestine, is an immediate necessity."

"For the sake of the physical welfare of the human race," he called for an "early agreement amongst the nations, calling a halt to further nuclear tests."

Church Attendance Increase Spurs Hunt for New Sites

A "decided increase" in attendance at Anglican churches on Vancouver Island was reported today by Archbishop Harold E. Sexton at a diocesan synod meeting in Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall.

Churches in the Victoria area are "filled to capacity on Sunday mornings," he said.

He asked the synod to consider acquiring three or four new sites on the Island for erection of new churches and halls "so that our Anglican brethren may be assured of adequate accommodation."

Sunday school attendance is also on the upswing, the Archbishop said, particularly at St. Luke's Church, Cedar Hill, where "the children have even invaded the rectory."

"I am told so far the rector has succeeded in keeping his bedroom to himself," His Grace noted.

Archbishop Harold E. Sexton officially relinquished his position today as Archbishop of Columbia after 27 years' service.

"I hope to appoint a full-time Archbishop of Columbia at an early date," he said. "For several years I have keenly felt the need of a capable, understanding and accessible archiepiscopal colleague..."

MIGHT BE VISIBLE TO NAKED EYE

Saanich Astronomers to Try For Picture of Comet Tonight

Astronomers at Dominion Astrophysical Observatory will be on the watch tonight for Comet 1956-H, reported seen over Vancouver Tuesday night.

"We are interested in it, and will be trying to get a picture," said Dr. Andrew McKellar.

It is expected to be visible after twilight in northwest skies for about two weeks.

"On a clear night it might be visible to the naked eye, and could be identified as being fuzzier than a star," Dr. McKellar said. "Under really ideal conditions, its tail might be visible too."

Although it is moving rapidly through space, the comet's motion would not be noticeable without instruments, he said.

"If you could see it on successive nights, though, you would notice its position had changed slightly in relation to other stars," he said.

Comets are designated according to the order in which they are seen in a given year. The comet in question, for instance, was the eighth recorded in 1956, hence the year and H, or eighth letter of the alphabet.

Teenage Boy Fined $100 In Arena Fray

Timothy W. Rogers, 18, 189 Maddock, one of three teenagers involved in disturbances at a rock 'n' roll dance at Memorial Arena April 1, was fined $100 in city police court today for obstructing a police officer.

Magistrate H. C. Hall told him, "In view of your age and the fact you have been in jail about 10 days (in custody awaiting court action), I will fine you..."

"This conduct must be stopped. If it continues, there is no question that jail will be ordered."

Rogers was ordered to leave the dance but refused to go when instructed by Cons. Norman Galbraith. A scuffle ensued and Rogers was arrested with the other two, Barbara Joan Winterburn, 16, and Douglas Brian Grover, 17, who police said struggled with Cons. Galbraith and were charged with assault.

Grover and Winterburn were remanded to Thursday after evidence was heard Tuesday in police court.

$5 Monthly Hike For Jubilee Staff

A $5 monthly wage increase for non-medical staff of Royal Jubilee Hospital has been recommended by a conciliation board.

Request for a Medical Service Plan was rejected on the grounds that the federal government is about to institute an overall scheme.

Accidental Causes In Gov't House, Birdcage Fires

Fires which destroyed Government House and the old "Birdcage" legislature building within the past month were both caused accidentally.

Basil Nixon, provincial fire marshal, said today his investigators had ruled out the possibility of arson in both blazes.

Actual causes of the fires have not been disclosed. They are believed to be contained in the fire marshal's reports now in the hands of the attorney-general's department.

A department official said they will not be released until the return of Attorney-General Robert Bonner, expected Monday.

Father, Son Get $4,100 Damages Award

A father and son injured in an auto collision at Superior and Menzies Streets on Aug. 27, 1954, were awarded damages totalling $4,100 in a judgment handed down in Supreme Court today by Mr. Justice Macfarlane.

Charles Falta of 2409 Vancouver Street, who was in hospital 14 days with serious injuries, was awarded $3,500 damages.

His son, Joseph, who was 19 at the time, received $600 damages.

The driver of the other car, Lawrence Venuti of Nanaimo, denied negligence, but Mr. Justice Macfarlane found that he was "in the wrong" because he failed to stop at the intersection "or even see a flashing red light and his windows were so fogged up he could not see to his right."

U.S. Fishboat Hard Aground Near Sidney

A U.S. fishboat went hard aground on a reef near Sidney at 3 a.m. today and at noon was high and dry.

The Lindy, described by the RCMP as a halibut schooner between 65 and 85 feet in length, is on Arachne Reef, between Gooch and Moresby Islands.

At low tide, she was six feet out of water, lying on her starboard side.

Her crew—believed to be eight in number—remained aboard, and her captain reported they were in no danger.

High tide at 1 p.m. promised only a two-foot six-inch rise, so it is unlikely the Lindy will be able to get off the reef until the next tide, around 8 p.m.

Radioed calls for aid from the Lindy were relayed by Air-Sea Rescue in Vancouver to the control tower at Patricia Bay Airport.

The control tower called Capt. F. E. Lewis, of nearby Coal Island, who stood by the Lindy until the captain of the fishboat assured him there was no danger.

'Even Cavemen Had Insurance Plans'

Insurance began with the cavemen, a group of 112 Victoria and Island insurance underwriters were told at a "sales congress" in the Empress Hotel today.

The annual one-day convention sponsored by the Victoria Life Underwriters' Association had the largest turnout in its more than 30-year history with members from Nanaimo and other Island cities attending to hear three top insurance men.

"Insurance is the one thing devised by man that will solve a problem the instant it is created," John V. Coe, chartered life underwriter from Wichita, Kan., told the group.

"Even cavemen had insurance plans when they set aside some of the game they brought home for the next day."

SAVE A LITTLE

"They saved a little of what they earned today in order that they might live tomorrow."

Mr. Coe said the only basic difference between the cavemen and modern society is that today people save dollars instead of firewood, game or water.

"Tomorrow for you and me is when we are old, dead or disabled. Life insurance is the only thing that solves those problems."

MAKE PEOPLE AWARE

Discussing selling techniques, Mr. Coe said the underwriter's job was to make people aware they had those problems and that life insurance was the best solution for them.

He drew a parallel between life insurance and preventive medicine because "you do today what will help you tomorrow."

An underwriter needed extensive professional training, constant study and a knack for being "Johnny on the spot" in serving customers with the utmost efficiency, he said.

Greenhouseman Heart Victim In $150 Fire

William Pugh, 65, collapsed and died today while attempting to fight an early morning fire in his Saanich greenhouse at 3900 Finnerty.

He had a heart condition for several years and coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said death was due to natural causes.

Mr. Pugh was aroused from sleep at his home adjoining the greenhouse at about 2:20 a.m. by a cab driver who saw the roof of the greenhouse in flames.

FELL TO FLOOR

He rushed to the building, where he raised tomato plants, connected a garden hose and opened windows to clear smoke in the furnace room, then fell to the floor before he was able to turn the hose on flames.

Firemen, called by the cab driver from Camp Gordon Head where he had just delivered his fares, found Mr. Pugh on the earthen furnace room floor.

Damage to the building amounted to about $150, firemen estimated.

EARLIER TROUBLE

Cause of the blaze was attributed to an overheated chimney, which had earlier in the evening charred timbers and stored material in the furnace room.

Firemen attended at that time and ordered the chimney area cleared of combustible boxes and pieces of wood.

This was done, but apparently when the furnace fire was reset for the night, the chimney again over-heated and set fire to the wooden part of the building and the roof.

Firemen called a nearby doctor to the scene, who pronounced Mr. Pugh dead.

The body was removed to McCall's, where funeral arrangements will be announced.

The deceased had been in business in Saanich 45 years and was well known in the trade.

Surviving are his widow Effie, at home, a daughter Edna and son-in-law Nick Youritchuk, 3898 Finnerty.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Why does Easter fall on a different date each year? What determines the date?

—Mrs. N.W.

A.—The last days of Christ coincided with the Passover feast of the Jews and His death fell upon the day of the Feast of the Passover on the 14th day of the Jewish month of Nisan. The Jewish calendar consisted of 12 lunar months or 354 days with periodically an extra month inserted to bring it in line with the solar calendar. The date of the Christian observance of Good Friday and Easter, therefore shifted from year to year in relation to the Julian solar calendar, then used by the Romans. Thus Easter has remained a movable date. It is always the first Sunday after the full moon which happens upon, or next after March 21; and if the full moon happens upon a Sunday, Easter Day is the Sunday after.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor, Questions and Answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Encourage Your Child to Paint at Home; Mix Finger Paint and Let Him Dabble

"Finger painting is fun! This is the first day we did it at school. Couldn't I paint a picture at home?" Johnny Black asked eagerly. "Isn't it awfully messy?" his mother asked doubtfully. "Teacher told us to spread old newspapers on the table and the floor before we begin. She wore a big apron and said that all we needed to do it at home was smooth, shiny paper and a finger paint mixture," Johnny answered. "You could wear one of my aprons, I suppose we could get a page from an old wall paper sample book, or there may be some pantry shelf paper which would do. But aren't the paints expensive?" Mrs. Black objected. "No! I've got the recipe right here! You can make it like a pudding on top of the stove."

Johnny replied, producing a crumpled sheet of paper. On it appeared the following directions: Cook over direct heat, four cups of water and one cup of corn starch, stirring constantly until thickened. Place in double boiler. Cook 10 minutes longer. Continue to stir to avoid lumps. Divide the thickened mass into four parts, cool and mix in vegetable coloring.

Mrs. Black was relieved that the finger painting mixture could be made in her own kitchen. She planned to put the finished product in four large empty cold cream jars with covers.

Johnny was so enthusiastic about finger painting, that she tried her hand at it, too. To her surprise she discovered that it was fun for a grown-up, too! She and Johnny hung some of their finger paint pictures on the wall, others they used as place mats on the dinner table. When they became more expert, they pasted a finger painting design on a large discarded cardboard ice cream carton. This made an attractive waste paper basket.

The origin of finger painting is interesting. A small school boy in the English speaking colony in Rome, 35 years ago, put his hand, Miss Ruth Faison Shaw, an American girl, who had gone overseas during the First World War to serve as a "canteen" worker under the YMCA. At its conclusion she had opened a private school in Rome. Miss Shaw told the boy to go and put iodine on his cut.

A little while later she found her young pupil having a marvellous time daubing brown iodine on the wall with his fingers. From this beginning Miss Shaw has developed finger painting as a simple art form for children, and in recent years for wounded veterans and patients suffering from nervous tensions.

Children draw or paint for sheer enjoyment and they should not be hampered by adult suggestions. Neither should their pictures ever be ridiculed. A child is sensitive and rather than run the risk of being laughed at a second time he will refrain from painting. A little child's small muscles are not sufficiently co-ordinated to work on tiny pictures. He should be given large sheets of paper, wrapping paper or newspaper may be used, at least 18 by 24 inches. It is a good plan to hang the child's drawing up in his own room. He has put time and effort into its creation and so it is of value to him.

How Long Should a Widow Mourn?

After a husband's death, how long must a widow wait before accepting invitations? I have no desire to go out, but my friends tell me it is bad for me to be alone all the time. I wouldn't for the world give the impression that I am starting to be a "merry widow", when that is furthest from my thoughts.

Louise Davis Answers: Since you have no desire to go out, you shouldn't force yourself to do it.

Louise Davis for you are still mourning. On the other hand it isn't psychologically healthy to be a hermit, but I'm sure you will emerge as soon as your wounds have healed enough. Except for the small number of ultra conservatives, people don't establish definite mourning periods as they once did. But when hearts are heavy, people like yourself have no desire to go dating and naturally they don't encourage it. It generally takes months or even a year. You don't have to be alone all the time. Surely you can accept dinner invitations to the homes of close friends, and surely you can have one or two couples at your home for dinner (with no thought of having a male partner for you). Being sociable to that extent doesn't mean that you are "going out", but evenings like that are good therapy.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Tens of thousands of women all over the country think of "Why Grow Old's" nine-day reducing diet as a sign that spring is here. And many of them have written me to say that they keep the nine-day diet as a regular part of their household equipment and use it periodically as a part of their beauty and health routine.

When their clothes begin to feel tight and they weigh to find that they have gained from five to 10 pounds, they immediately get this diet out and stick to it until they are back at their ideal poundage. This is an excellent idea because it is so easy to lose that first five pounds and you can do it in such a short time. Also, if you leave them lying around on you the chances are they will multiply.

As you know, I am publishing my nine-day reducing diet at this time.

Here are tomorrow's menus.

THURSDAY'S MENUS

Breakfast — one poached egg on toast, black coffee.

Luncheon — one medium hamburger cake (cooked without butter and made of lean meat), celery sticks, one glass skimmed milk, two raw carrots.

Dinner — small lean steak, one-half cup cauliflower, one baked potato (no butter, medium sized potato has only about 90 calories), one orange, one glass skimmed milk before bedtime.

If you would like to have this rapid reducing diet to use now and to keep to refer to in the future, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Tips and Hints for You For Your Spring Shopping By PENNY SAVER

Before I launch upon the newest things I saw in town, I want to tell you something else about the chop-matic food chopper I mentioned yesterday. I have found another wonderful use for it, and I thought I'd tell you about it. I discovered that making bread crumbs with this gadget is so easy that I managed to crumble all the bread I've been collecting, and have put it in jars, ready for use. I never dreamed it could be so easy. Instead of bread flying in all directions, and crumbs falling to the floor, it all stayed neatly inside the plastic sides.

Now, on to new things for today . . .

Some time ago I came across jewelled light switch plates for children's rooms, and now I find that bedrooms, bathrooms and any other rooms in the house can be given a touch of frivolity with many-colored light switch plates. Mock jewels set in gold metal adorn these metal plates, and really do add interest. Gold, black, white, pink, silver and green is available to complement any decor. Especially nice for girls' rooms, these plates are selling for just 98 cents. They are fun to give, and fun to receive.

Into another department for a moment, let's look at chinaware. Bone china cups and saucers that fill the bill as shower or birthday gifts any time are in attractive, gay patterns that seem to reflect the blossoms so evident now. Floral, plain or fluted designs, all looking much more expensive than they really are, will look lovely at your next tea party, or will bring words of appreciation from a recipient. The price is right, at $1.

EXPORT OUTLOOK DIM

Two-Price Flour System Unable To Match U.S.

By HAROLD MORRISON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has embarked on a partial two-price system for flour exports but apparently she still is unable to match the United States in the fight for world markets.

The situation is extremely bad, a federal grain authority said. Despite the adjustment in Canadian flour prices, Canada is going to have great difficulty increasing flour exports.

The major problem is that the U.S. offers better quality flour at lower prices. The price cuts resulted from high American government subsidies.

On March 1 the Canadian wheat board attempted to improve Canada's competitive position by offering rebates on flour exports. The rebates, subsidized by farmers and not the government, had the effect of reducing export prices below those for flour consumed in Canada.

REBATES ADJUSTED

Initially, the rebates to exporters ranged from 4 1/2 cents a bushel on flour shipped out of Atlantic ports to eight cents on shipments from Pacific points. Since then the rebate has been reduced slightly for the Pacific area and increased slightly for the East.

The rebates apply to shipments to certain markets, excluding the U.S., Britain and Continental Europe.

While American domestic wheat prices range sharply higher than those in Canada, American government subsidies for exports are relatively large. In the case of flour, the U.S. subsidy runs to about 97 cents a bushel on a domestic price of about $2.40, cutting it to $1.53 for exports.

In Canada, the small rebate reduces the Canadian export price for flour to about $1.60, basis No. 1 northern.

Federal officials said no firm figures were yet available on the trend of Canadian flour exports since the rebates were announced. But they said the situation was not encouraging.

GAP NARROWED

In the seven months of the current crop year which started Aug. 1 last, Canada exported 21,800,000 bushels of wheat in the form of flour, down from 22,100,000 in the previous year.

However, wheat exports increased in that period to 138,100,000 bushels from 114,600,000.

Officials said the Canadian rebate, while not making Canada completely competitive with the U.S., did aid in narrowing the gap slightly.

If only the U.S. would reduce its subsidy, the situation might be different, one said. Canada had apparently made representations to the U.S. on this point, but was given no encouragement.

HIGHER PROTEIN CONTENT

Another factor in the situation is that the U.S. has large stocks of high protein wheat which millers are anxious to obtain. The protein content of Canadian wheat is much less. The protein content is BRISTOL, England (Reuters)—Fire Tuesday swept through the 1,326-ton Norwegian freighter Stahlheim, lighting up the entire dock area here. The fire, believed to have started in the vessel's engine room, was brought under control.

AT NEW YORK

Stahl Linked With Defence Stock Deals

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York State attorney-general said Tuesday that manipulations carried out through two Swiss banks on behalf of firms and individuals in Iron Curtain countries seek control of securities in western companies producing defence material.

Attorney-General Louis J. Lefkowitz said the principal figure in the involved operations was Charles Robert Stahl, former Edmonton broker now living in Rio de Janeiro.

Stahl was involved in an action in February in which the attorney-general charged him with participating with Canadian associates in an international fraud which cost American investors an estimated $6,000,000.

Stahl, formerly connected with the Edmonton brokerage firm of Stahl-Miles, lived in Pelham, N.Y., before going to South America.

Last March Stahl signed a consent decree in Rio de Janeiro, which barred him permanently from securities dealings in New York.

Lefkowitz obtained an order Tuesday from the Supreme Court calling upon officers of the two Swiss banking corporations to explain their dealings and produce books and records for examination in court June 14.

THE CORPORATIONS ARE S. A.

Displacements Mobilisers, set up in 1952, and Banque Ferrier Lullin, both in Geneva, Switzerland.

Lefkowitz, in an affidavit, said the stock operations might have resulted in gaining control of "fantastic amounts of securities" in American, British, Dutch and Canadian corporations producing uranium, oil, nickel, lithium, copper and natural gas.

Lefkowitz said his information was furnished by a "major figure" in Displacements Mobilisers, formed as a vehicle to invest capital of eastern Europeans in these corporations.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt. (AP)—No damage was reported as a result of a moderate earthquake which shook a 15-mile area for three to five seconds Tuesday night. The ground and buildings trembled in St. Johnsbury and nearby towns, and police switchboards in the affected areas were swamped with telephone calls from residents, many of whom believed the tremors were caused by an explosion.

Wildflower Artist to Show Work in Spring Festival

Wildflower Artist to Show Work in Spring Festival

One of the world's most famous painters of flowers says Victorians should show off their native wildflowers to U.S. visitors during the city's two-week Springtime Festival starting next Sunday.

Emily Sartain, who has won many awards for her paintings of B.C. wild flowers, said U.S. visitors would be equally as impressed with natural displays of colorful native blooms as with anything they will see in the city.

"South Vancouver Island has one of the most varied flora in Canada," said Miss Sartain, who spends most of her time hiking and climbing in search of rock and alpine plants to paint, "but we do nothing to show off our native flowers."

The Springtime Festival is expected to draw over 5,000 visitors to the city between April 28 and May 11. It will feature conducted tours of private gardens, a square dance jamboree, a folk dance jamboree, a folk dance festival and music festival.

Miss Sartain, who recently returned from a trip to England, will do her bit for the festival by displaying 200 of her paintings of native wildflowers at the Victoria Art Gallery. The exhibition will open next Tuesday. It includes works which won her awards from the Royal Horticultural Society.

The artist, who has done much to attract attention in England and the United States on the native flora of B.C., said Thetis Lake Park was the "natural site" for showing visitors native trees, shrubs and flowers.

"At this time of the year," she said, "you can see sheets of pink sea bluish and monkey flowers on rocky outcrops. In the woods, the false lady slipper and the Easter lily are in full bloom."

"Then there are blue camass and a host of flowering shrubs," she added. "Few cities can boast of having a natural garden at their doorstep, as we have."

Miss Sartain noted that some U.S. states were publishing expensive colored booklets on their native flora.

"They realize that a rich natural flora is an asset and is a big attraction for visitors," she said.

Miss Sartain said visitors she had come in contact with have been amazed at the varied flora of South Vancouver Island.

"In England, even the Queen Mother is interested in our native flowers," she said. "It is one of our biggest assets and we should set aside a show place for them."

Slo-Mo Spirit Riding Again

SEATTLE (AP)—The spirit of Slo-Mo-Shun IV, queen of hydroplanes, is riding again in a rose-colored boat with the Slo-Mo pit crew as owners, chief worriers, and official optimists.

It came about when Edgar Kaiser, owner of the Hawaii Kai, said the press of business made it impossible for him to race the unlimited hydroplane this year.

He turned the boat over to the pit crew, most of whom moved to the Kaiser camp when the old Slo-Mo-Fo cracked up last year on the Detroit river.

Also on the owner list is Jack Regas, who drove the Kai for Kaiser and will continue as its pilot.

Along with the boat went funds to campaign her. The new syndicate is preparing her for the Apple Cup on Lake Chelan next month, the Lake Tahoe race in July and the Gold Cup wrangle on Lake Washington in August.

New CCF Policy Could Spark Party Clash

Provincial CCFers open a three-day annual meeting in Vancouver Friday, with the hint of controversy over the party's new manifesto adopted in Winnipeg last August.

Criticism of the Winnipeg declaration, a toned-down revision of the depression-adopted Regina Manifesto, is contained in resolutions coming before the expected 200 delegates.

In view of the forthcoming election, however, a full-blown debate is not expected on the convention floor.

The more radical members of the CCF believe the new manifesto is too soft.

It denounces monopolies and big business but adds that the party "also recognizes that in many fields there will be need for private enterprise."

This contrasts sharply with the Regina Manifesto, which for 23 years took the stand that "no CCF government will rest content until it has eradicated capitalism."

One resolution before the B.C. meeting also criticizes the fact that the Winnipeg Declaration was not circulated to all CCF clubs for discussion before being adopted.

Main theme of the meeting will undoubtedly be the June 10 election campaign. The CCF's six B.C. federal members will take part.

Possibility of a "little provincial election" on the eve of the federal election loomed today.

Speculation followed the resignation of Thomas Irwin as speaker of the legislature to contest the federal riding of Burnaby-Richmond for Social Credit.

It was noted that Mr. Irwin submitted his resignation one month in advance of the federal nomination deadline, allowing time for Premier Bennett to call provincial by-elections in three unrepresented ridings.

A good showing in these by-elections would boost the party's position in the federal contest.

Only 35 days' notice is required to order a provincial by-election.

The other vacancies were caused by the deaths of Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd (Cariboo) and CCF member Ernest Winch (Burnaby).

Provincial officials have not yet been officially notified of the death of Mr. Chetwynd and Mr. Irwin's resignation from the legislature.

A by-election must be held within six months of official notification.

Another theory is that Premier Bennett will wait until after the federal election before calling the "little election" to ensure getting strong candidates.

If Mr. Irwin should lose in his first bid in federal politics, he may wish to run again provincially, and could be in line for a cabinet post.

Mr. Irwin was first elected from Delta in 1952 and was appointed speaker at the start of the 1953 session of the legislature.

Premier Due Back Here Today

Premier W. A. C. Bennett was expected back in Victoria today after his barnstorming tour of Eastern Canada.

At his last press conference in Montreal, the premier charged that the federal Liberal government has been giving out "terrible and scandalous patronage" to its friends.

At the same time, Mr. Bennett said Social Credit's campaign funds in B.C. are accepted with "no strings attached."

He had no knowledge of where his party's campaign funds came from, the premier said.

Asked to give a specific example of federal patronage, Mr. Bennett replied: "Horses on the payroll."

It was disclosed at the press conference that Social Credit will distribute across the country 1,000,000 copies of the party platform, printed in a slick-paper booklet.

Debate continued, meanwhile on the size of the audience and overall success of the Social Credit rally at Toronto's Massey Hall.

Premier Bennett accused the press of "deliberately trying to play down" the meeting.

He "definitely" was not disappointed, the premier said.

Boy Genius Quits TV Quiz With $192,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Television's all-time high quiz show winner, 10-year-old Robert Strom, quit Tuesday night while he was $192,000 ahead.

Robert, who has answered tough questions in different scientific fields for many weeks on CBS' The $64,000 Question, broke the record for quiz show winnings last week.

Tuesday night when he appeared again on the show, his father announced that they had decided the boy should stop.

It wasn't much of a strain on Robert, his father said, but a terrific strain on his mother and father.

Robert, who will get his winnings in three annual instalments—to ease his income tax burden—was asked by master of ceremonies Hal March how he felt about quitting the show. He grinned and replied: "Well, what can you do with parents?"

B.C. Teachers Rule Sex Education Subject for Mature Instructors

VANCOUVER (CP)—Delegates to the British Columbia Teachers' Convention debated sex education Tuesday and decided only senior teachers should attempt it.

H. B. Smith, assistant superintendent of Vancouver schools, said "properly mature experienced teachers should not be afraid of discussing subjects like sex, narcotics, or anything else" in appropriate classes.

Mr. Smith was discussing a ment course, taught in B.C. schools.

Teachers said that in many schools, the course is left to the new teacher.

"To often it is given to someone who can't teach anything else," said C. I. Taylor, inspector of schools for Courtenay district.

Said Mrs. M. C. Pennington, teacher and girls' councillor from Cranbrook High School, "many teachers are afraid to open a discussion with their group. They shudder at the thought of some of the questions they may be asked."

Mr. Smith said the course should be taught only by teachers with five years experience or more.

Said Kay Elliott, teacher and counsellor at Gladstone High School in Vancouver: "The health and personal development course, if taught by a good teacher, is a wonderful course. Otherwise, it is terrible."

In Tuesday's sessions B.C. teachers lined up solidly against the trend to larger schools on the grounds these are "factories" with an assembly line type of teacher-student relationship.

At the same time they admitted that the present huge schools with their classes of 40 and more students were a necessity of the current economy.

It also was stated some high school students today have so much pocket money they teachers are asked to help them make out income tax returns.

A survey conducted at a greater Vancouver school showed that last year's total income for 1,000 students was $550,000.

One student filed a return for $3,300 this year.

The students spent $464,000 in one year on everything from hair dressing to automobile maintenance. Some teachers felt that the students are "too rich for their own good."

Others thought the money they make helps develop independence and a sense of responsibility.

Papers Near Limit of Economic Endurance, U.S. Expert Asserts

NEW YORK (CP)—News-papers in the United States and Canada are giving "magnificent public service," but rising production costs are becoming a threat to that service, says the president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

William Dwight, ANPA president and publisher of the Holyoke (Mass.) Transcript-Telegram, said in an address prepared for today's session of the association "it is apparent to all that we cannot preserve the strong financial independence that a free press must have unless we find new and more economical methods of publishing."

"This last newspaper price increase cost North American newspapers many millions of dollars. It doesn't require a CPA (certified public chartered accountant) to conclude that some newspapers are being pushed to the limit of their economic endurance."

"There can come the time when the burden of this cost will become so excessive that newspapers will be compelled to reduce their use of newsprint."

"That would be unfortunate. It would have a deterrent effect on our economy, harmful to everyone. It would in turn have an adverse impact on newsprint manufacturers."

Dwight said some labor organizations "have placed hobbies on the full application of new and improved mechanical ways of producing newspapers."

"They have blocked the maximum use of the instruments that alone can make the production of newspapers more efficient."
